Indochina Reds Open New Drive on Fortress

French Fight Off Attacks at DienBienPhu

High Command Says All Positions Holding Under Savage Assault

HANOI, Indochina (AP)—The defenders of Dien Bien Phu hurled back attack after attack from screaming Vietminh shock troops early today, interspersing savage counterattacks of their own.

Second Big Attack

The French high command announced at noon that the garrison was holding all its positions.

Rested and regrouped after the beating they took in their initial assaults on the fortress in mid-March, the Communist-led rebels opened their second offensive on the heels of a violent artillery barrage.

Thousands of wildly yelling rebel troops sprang from foxholes and trenches ringing the dusty, hill-rimmed valley of Dien Bien Phu and charged toward the maze of barbed wire barricades guarding the French trenches, dugouts and air strip.

Hurling grenades, firing machineguns, rifles and pistols, the Vietminh raced into sheets of fire from the American-supplied guns manned by a garrison including Frenchmen, North Africans, Foreign Legionnaires, Vietnamese and pro-French Thai tribesmen.

Tanks, artillery, mortars and heavy machineguns cut the rebel ranks.

French Strike by Air

Overhead, every fighter and bomber plane the French could muster laid down blazing barrages of napalm and strafed the Vietminh concentrations in the greatest aerial assault of the 7-year-old Indochina war. The Vietminh made six successive attacks on the fortress defenses but were thrown back each time and each time the French Union troops moved out in counterattacks.

The rebels, who have been rounding up thousands of guerrilla fighters to bolster their elite troops around Dien Bien Phu, hit first at the eastern defenses and then at points along the southern edge of the perimeter.

Resumption of the all-out drive to overwhelm France's northwest Indochina holding came after two weeks of rebel regrouping in the jungled hills following an initial assault in which the Vietminh lost an estimated 12,000 casualties.

Barrage Signals Attack

French army headquarters said the new assault followed a violent artillery barrage.

The French Union defenders inside their barbed wire ringed bunkers were confident they could drive off the latest assaut as they had the initial three days of rebel suicide charges that began March 13.

On Monday, in their first counter-attack from the plain, French tanks, artillery, infantry and planes killed 1,400 rebels in a coordinated strike at two villages about two miles from the fortress' western defense line.

Otherwise, in the interim since the last rebel assault, the opposing forces carried on a screaming artillery duel and French pilots in American-supplied planes strafed and bombed the Vietminh positions around the clock.

The Vietminh have poured in reinforcements. Supplies have been brought in from Red China by

Two Escapees Of School Here Are Captured

One Returned, Other Is Held in Alabama On Burglary Charge

One of two youths who escaped from the Marion Training School last Dec. 21 was returned to Marion Tuesday and the other is being held in Alabama on charges of burglary and grand larceny.

LaMoyne Green, superintendent of the Training School, said today that he returned Kenneth Hale, 19, to Marion from Laurel County, Ky., yesterday.

He filed charges of "attempting to escape confinement at the Marion Training School," against Hale in Municipal Court this morning. At the preliminary hearing, Hale pleaded guilty and Judge W. Dexter Hazen ordered him bound over to the Marion County Grand Jury under a $4,000 appearance bond.

Green explained that under present state law any inmate of any state penal institution who escapes and is taken into custody must be tried for "attempted escape" in a court of proper jurisdiction.

The other youth who escaped the night of Dec. 21 with Hale was Jodie Chaney, 20. He was first taken into custody in Lee County, Ark., and was later turned over to Alabama authorities on the Court Upholds Rate Hike for Local Phones

General Telephone's Increase of Last Year Declared Permanent

The Ohio Supreme Court today upheld higher rates granted the General Telephone Co. by the public utilities commission which became effective Jan. 7, 1953 to subscribers of Marion and 135 other exchanges served by the company.

The court's ruling makes the rate increase permanent and will have no effect on subscriber's phone bills, a company spokesman stated today.

The increase, granted in January of 1953, was an authorization by the utilities commission on an emergency application by the company. This emergency rate increase was also appealed by Marion and other Ohio cities, and was upheld by the state Supreme Court in March of 1953.

Today's ruling affirms the permanent rate increase granted by the utilities commission. The case was heard in February.

Marion and the other protestant cities opposed the increases on grounds the state utilities commission refused to hear applications on "exchange or local basis." The court held the property, revenues and expenses of telephone companies may be considered on a company-wide basis in determining rates.

A similar decision was handed down by the court upholding rate increases for 39 exchanges of the Ohio Consolidated Telephone Co.

The decision affects increases for General Telephone amounting to $1,293,995 a year, or 21 per cent, and for Consolidated Telephone amounting to $739,725 a year, or 28.42 per cent.

Nearly 8,700 Auto Tags Sold

New Plates Must Be Installed by Thursday

Marion motorists apparently purchased their maroon and white 1954 license plates early this year.

Mrs. Corah Weber, deputy registrar, said today there was no last minute rush for tags. Business on the final day on which cars with 1953 plates can be driven was "rather slow." Dayton reportedly had 90 people in line before the office opened there.

Nearly 8,700 auto tags have been issued by the Marion office this year, about the same number which had been issued by the same time last year.

The deputy registrar attributes the absence of a last minute rush to the fact that her office was open at night. "Perhaps only a dozen people would come in at night, but had they been crowded into daylight hours, people would have had to stand in line."

The license bureau at 124 Court St. will remain open tonight until 9 p.m. for those who have yet to obtain 1954 plates.

H-Bomb To Blast Any City Now Possible, Strauss Says

Ike Says He'll Okay Excise Tax Slash Bill

Believes It Will Help Stimulate Business, President Tells Press

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower said today he will sign the 999 million dollar excise tax cut bill and believes it will help stimulate business.

The President told his news conference he will put his signature to the measure later in the day. He added he has every reason to believe enactment of the tax reduction will be a stimulating factor in the American economy.

Eisenhower decided to sign the bill into law—the cuts will be effective tomorrow—even though it throws his budget for the next year a billion dollars deeper in the red.

The compromise measure, carrying an estimated 999 million dollars worth of cuts on dozens of products, shot through Congress yesterday with overwhelming approval. The House vote was 395-1, the Senate 72-8.

James C. Hagerty, White House press secretary, dispelled whatever lingering doubts there were about the President's attitude by commenting late yesterday "He'll probably sign it tomorrow morning."

There was evidence that most of the cuts would be passed along to consumers, providing a stimulus to retail trade in many lines.

General Electric Co. and Westinghouse Electric Corp. announced that their home appliances would be reduced by the amount of the tax reduction and the Philco Corp. and the Crosley and Bendix Division of Avco Manufacturing Corp. indicated they would follow suit. So did other makers of home laundry machines.

Los Angeles-New York Flight Record Broken

NEW YORK (AP)— The Los Angeles-New York speed record for commercial flights has been broken twice within 24 hours by American Airlines.

A DC7 made the flight yesterday in 5 hours, 51 minutes.

The flight cut 19 minutes from the record of a DC7 on Monday, which was recognized by the National Aeronautical Assn. as a commercial record. The old record was 6 hours and 17 minutes, set by an Eastern Air Lines plane in February 1949. The trip is listed at 2,439 miles.

RESULTS OF THE SPRING STORM. Stalled and abandoned, these automobiles like countless others, lay under a blanket of snow along Main street in Buffalo, N. Y. after the worst storm of the year. The weather bureau said the official fall was 11 inches, with drifts of 15 inches or more.

Tremendous Power Bared By AEC Head

'Enormous Potential' Added to Military Posture, He Declares

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chairman Lewis L. Strauss of the Atomic Energy Commission said today a hydrogen bomb big enough to wipe out any city in the world now can be made.

Strauss made the statement at President Eisenhower's weekly news conference. He attended the conference to give the public a partial report on the recent H-bomb tests in the Pacific.

Tests Successful

The AEC chairman said the March 1 and March 26 tests were successful" and declared that "enormous potential has been added to our military posture."

He denied reports that the first blast, which exposed a number of Americans, Japanese and Marshall Islanders far from the explosion scene to "hot" ashes, went out of control.

"It was a stupendous blast," Strauss said. "But at no time was the testing out of control."

'Not Unusual Margin'

He said the power of the explosion was about twice what scientists had expected—a margin of error not unusual, he added, in testing "a totally new weapon."

An unexpected shift in the wind carried atomic particles to the area where a Japanese fishing trawler was cruising, Strauss added.

Strauss said the tests bring the commission "very much nearer" to satisfying the requirements of the armed forces and hasten the day when the AEC can devote more attention to developing peacetime uses of atomic energy.

President Eisenhower listened with keen attention as Strauss—just back from the Pacific tests—read a four-page statement and then answered a few questions.

In reply to one question, Strauss said, without qualification, that an H-bomb large enough to "take out a city can be made.

"How big a city?" he was asked.

"Any city," Strauss replied.

"New York?" a reporter pressed.

Laird Declares Ike Yielded on Dairy Cutback

Bowed After Benson's Threat To Quit, Says Wisconsin Legislator

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Laird (R-Wis) said today a modification of the cutback in dairy price supports had the tentative approval of President Eisenhower but secretary of Agriculture Benson knocked it out.

"A source close to President Eisenhower called a House Republican leader and said that Benson told the President that he would quit as secretary of agriculture if he was forced to change his position," Laird said in an interview, effective at midnight.

About a month ago, Benson ordered a cut in the support prices of butter, cheese and dried milk from 90 to 75 per cent of parity, effective at midnight tonight.

The change is expected to bring a cut of about 8 cents a pound in butter prices.

Laird, working with members from other dairy states, called the cut too drastic and sought a modification Benson held firm, citing the millions of pounds of dairy products already acquired by the government.

Laird said that as late as last Friday it appeared that Benson's order would be changed to provide support prices after April 1 of 82½

March To Bow Out 'Like Lion' In Many Areas

By The Associated Press

There was nothing lamb - like about today's weather as March prepared to bow out with a cold snap continuing over a major part of the country. Snow and sleet in many areas made it more wintry like in the second week of the spring season.

Cold air extended from the northern Rocky Mountains eastward across New England. Southward the leading edge of the cold air mass spread from Virginia southeastward to Texas and northwestward into the southern Rockies.

Temperatures were below zero in some northern states and it was freezing and below over wide areas. It was four degrees below zero in Houlton, Maine and one below in International Falls, Minn. In contrast, readings were above 100 in southern Texas yesterday with a high of 104 at Laredo.

Light snow fell early today in the central Rockies and in the upper Great Lakes region. Showers, sleet and light snow were reported in the Middle Atlantic states.

Heavy snow fell yesterday in parts of Colorado and Wyoming, with nearly two feet in the Walden area of northern Colorado.

Tugboats Begin Operations in New York City

Court Rules Stoppage Violated Taft-Hartley, Orders Crews to Duty

NEW YORK (AP)—Tugboats were back at work in New York harbor today following the government's first success in efforts to break up the 27-day dock strike.

Since last week tugs had refused to maneuver ships in sympathy with a strike called by the International Longshoremen's Assn. (ILA). The walkout flared up after six months of bitter competition between the independent union and the AFL-ILA for the right to represent dock workers.

The tugs returned to work yesterday after the National Labor Relations Board got a federal court order directing the ILA to stop picketing tugboats and to see that their ILA crews went back to work.

The court ruled the tug stoppage violated a Taft-Hartley law ban against secondary boycotts.

The pier strike spread to dockside warehouses yesterday when the ILA posted pickets outside the buildings. However, only about half the ports warehouses were picketed, and operators of those struck were expected to apply for a court order that would quickly end the walkout. They would base their request on the same grounds used in the case of the tugboats.

A back-to-work movement, mostly by nonstriking AFL men, continued yesterday. The New York-New Jersey Waterfront Commission reported 4,142 men were on the job, 227 more than the day before. However this was still less than a quarter of the number normally employed.

Lindsay Warren, Federal Spending Watchdog, Retiring

WASHINGTON (AP)—Lindsay C. Warren, 64, comptroller general of the United States, is returning from his dismissal-proof job as the watchdog of Congress over federal spending.

His request for retirement effective April 30, was announced today.

He had served 13½ years of a controversy-laden 15-year term. Leaving because of physical disability, he will get his full $17,500 salary for life under an act signed by President Eisenhower last year.

Under his direction the General Accounting Office (GAO) has recovered for the taxpayers an estimated 915 million dollars of illegal or improper payments.

Russians Hand West Paper on Security Plans

MOSCOW (AP)—Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov called in the ambassadors of the United States, Britain and France today and handed them a Soviet note containing proposals for European security.

Contents of the note were not disclosed by the ambassadors, who cabled the text to their respective capitals.

Western embassy officials said the Soviet note was 10 pages long.

The Molotov proposals apparently were intended as an advance statement for the Geneva Conference of the Big Four with Red China and other powers opening April 26.

At the recent Berlin Big Four conference Molotov proposed an European security plan which rejected the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and the proposed European Defense Community.

Molotov asserted that these western plans divided Europe and set one section of Europe against another, thus threatening peace.

Since then, the Soviet Union has sent a series of notes to the Netherlands, Greece, Turkey and Pakistan protesting the granting of bases to the United States and other cooperation with American sponsored defense plans.

Held on Draft Charge

ZANESVILLE, Ohio (AP)—Richard L. Overholtz, 21, of Lima was arraigned here yesterday on a charge of failing to register for the draft. U.S. Commissioner Homer E. Walters held him to the U.S. District Court in Columbus under $1,000 bond. Overholtz told authorities he was given a bad conduct discharge from the Army in 1953 after serving 2 years and 8 months. He was arrested in Zanesville Monday night on a vagrancy charge.

Seeks New Record

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Speed pilot Joe DeBona took off for New York at 10 18 08 a.m., EST, today in a try to break the trans-continental jet plane record of 4 hours, 8 minutes, 5 seconds.

Career Day Held

Service to Others Is Key To Success, Pupils Told

Service to others not money, is the goal set up by successful people in all walks of life, Carl George, general manager of radio station WGAR, Cleveland, told about 1,600 students this morning at the opening of Career Day.

"People who start out with money as their goal usually wind up with less than those who want to render a service," George told public and parochial students in grades 9 through 12.

SPEAKING IN the Harding High School auditorium, George keynoted the 13th annual conference which was held all morning at Harding.

Money and security should not be placed above everything else in deciding on a job, George said. Each person has his own idea of what is most important.

"Security is the result, not the cause of anything," he said. First you must be determined to be a winner."

GEORGE LISTED eight points to follow in seeking a job and reaching success:

1. Have as many genuine friends as possible. 2. Don't try to imitate others, develop your own personality. 3. Sell yourself, don't wait for opportunities to come to you. 4. Develop a plan for finding your job and be prepared when someone asks you to work for them. 5. Be prepared to learn every day.

6. Be aggressive and inquisitive and don't be afraid to ask "why". 7. Learn to live with your limitations. 8. Change your attitude if you can't change existing conditions after a good try.

GEORGE SAID he is stimulated to do better by "constant fear" of losing his job. Being a little afraid of losing your position eliminates complacency, he said.

He emphasized that students should always be ready to change their attitudes, throughout life.

"We can't change our bodies, the houses we live in, but we can change what is inside them," he said.

AFTER THE opening talk, students split up into groups to attend conferences on job opportunities. Altogether, more than 50 vocational fields were described by guest speakers.

High school students had their choice of two discussions while junior high students had a general educational session and one conference.

Career Day is sponsored by 12 Marion civic and service groups: Altrusa, Business and Professional Women, CIO Executive Council Exchange Club, Junior Chamber of Commerce, Junior Service Guild, Kiwanis, Lions, Marion Central Labor Union (AFL), Rotary, 20-30 and Y Men.

Comments on Asia Policy

President Backs Dulles' Stand on 'United Action'

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower said today this government's call for united action against possible Communist conquest of Indochina and all of southeast Asia means there must be readiness to meet any kind of attack.

The President made this statement at his news conference in comment on Secretary of State Dulles' speech Monday night.

In that address Dulles said Communist control of southeast Asia would be a grave threat to the free world and "that possibility should . . . be met by united action." Dulles provided no detail on just what he meant by such action.

Eisenhower said he went over every word of Dulles' speech in advance, and that as usual he and the secretary of state found themselves in full accord.

The President said Dulles was talking about united action by all the countries in the southeast Asia area.

Then, without being any more specific than Dulles was, he said we must be prepared to meet any kind of attack.

That is the kind of united action we are seeking, he said.

A reporter told Eisenhower some people had interpreted Dulles' speech to mean direct intervention by American troops, if necessary.

Eisenhower replied that he could conceive of no greater disadvantage to America than to employ U.S. ground forces all around the world.

The objective is, he said, is to try to make our friends strong enough to take care of local situations themselves.

Cox Marks Birthday

Unity in America Urged For Leadership of World

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—James M. Cox, elder statesman and newspaper publisher, today urged unity for America in a troubled world.

The former governor of Ohio and Democratic presidential candidate in 1920 with Franklin D. Roosevelt, his running mate, reached his 84th birthday today. He granted an interview with some reluctance, his first in four years.

Active Publisher

Cox entered Congress in 1908 and was re-elected two years later. He was governor of Ohio for three terms, 1913-15, 1917-19 and 1919-21, and was the Democratic nominee for President in 1920. Since then he has devoted himself almost exclusively to his seven newspapers in the North and South.

What about world conditions?

"I've had time to reflect on the matters of my official career and the consequences of the tragedy of 1920," he said.

That tragedy, he believes, was the defeat of the ideal of the League of Nations. He recalled that Winston Churchill, prime minister and great wartime leader of Britain, recently said the defeat of the League of Nations "has cost two wars." Cox believes that too.

The Governor—that's how he is known to all newspapermen — appeared in excellent health and spirit.

Tremendous Crisis

He spoke of the "tremendous crisis that involves our part of the world," and was asked:

"What do you think of our leadership in this time of crisis?"

"I have the greatest sympathy

Ewe Production Program

County Farmers Among Leaders in Sheep Contest

Marion County farmers placed 10th, 18th, 20th and 21st in the 1953 Commercial Ewe Production Program of the Ohio Sheep Improvement Association.

John W. Buyer, Frank Clay, Cecil Murphy and Trihaft Farms were the Marion leaders. The citations were announced last week at Farm and Home Week in Columbus.

BASIS OF THE awards is money earned from sale of market fat lambs and wool per ewe in the flock. Other points are given for desirable management, feeding practices and information in records furnished.

Trihaft farms placed 10th in the 101-and-up ewe flock size class won by Robert Hunter of Madison County. Trihaft received an average of $25 per lamb and wool sold per brood ewe while Hunter earned $32.27. Trihaft's record was made from a flock of 254 brood ewes of native crossbred breeding. About 1.14 lambs were raised per ewe. The lambs averaged 85.5 pounds at 5-7 months per age.

A total of 98 pounds of lambs were sold per brood ewe. Gross return per animal unit was $150.

CLAY FINISHED 18th in the 51-to-100 class, trailing Russell Dorn of Madison County. Dorn received $34.62 per lamb and Clay got $25.50. Buyer finished 21st in this class, earning $23.33.

Clay has 69 brood ewes of native crossbred in his flock. About 9.3 pounds of wool were sold and 1.08 lambs were raised per brood. A total of 104 pounds of lambs were sold per brood. Gross return per animal totaled $152.40.

Buyer's 48 native crossbred flock retudned 8.6 pounds of wool sold. Approximately 1.08 lambs were raised per brood. About 100 pounds of lambs were sold per brood. Gross return per animal was $139.38.

IN THE 20 TO 51 class, Cecil Murphy received $26.16 while the winner, B. F. Crider of Auglaize County, got $48.58 per ewe.

Murphy's flock, 24 Corriedale ewes, returned 10.6 pounds of wool per ewe. An average of 1.25 lambs were raised and 105 pounds of lambs were sold per brood. Gross return amounted to $156.96 per animal.

Ralph Grimshaw, sheep extension specialist, reports an analysis of all 1953 sheep flock records shows an average of: 1. 128 lambs were raised and marketed per 100 ewes exposed to rams; 2. 114 pounds of lambs were marketed per ewe; 3. 10.4 pounds of wool were sold per ewe; and 4. $29 gross sales per ewe exposed was received.

THIS MEANS an average gross return of $174 per animal unit from six brood ewes. Sheep are the most extensive users of grass per animal unit. About 90 per cent of the feed for sheep comes from meadows and pastures.

The Sheep Improvement Association emphasizes seven points in its program: 1. Crossbreeding for hybrid vigor; 2. Providing plenty of quality legume grass meadows and hay for ewes and lambs; 3. Feeding brood ewes to make plenty of milk and provide grass fat lambs; 4. Drenching brood ewes and lambs with phenothiazine for internal parasites; 5. Dipping sheep to control external parasites; 6. Rotating flock on pastures and 7. Marketing lambs of a quality graded basis.

Marion County's Holstein Club will hold it's next meeting April 16 at the farm of Richard Brooks.

The Milk Testing Supervisors' short course at Ohio State University's agricultural laboratories building will close April 10. The course started March 25.

Farmer Sales Of Vegetables Top 9 Million

Ohio farmers last year received more than $9,000,000 for vegetables sold to canners and freezers.

"This income resulted from the harvesting of about 303,000 tons of vegetables for commercial processing," explained M. P. Cortilet, vice president in charge of American Can Company's central division. "Ohio produced almost 13 per cent of all the vegetables grown for canning and freezing in the Midwest states."

"The cash return last year to the state's farmers was $3,000,000 more than the average for the 1942-51 period and almost $700,000 over 1952," continued the executive for the company that perfected the modern food can.

Cortilet said that "the increasing popularity of canned food is directly responsible for the utilization in the state, of more than 41,000 acres for production of nine vegetable crops, including lima beans, cabbage, sweet corn, cucumbers, green peas and tomatoes."

Ohio was the country's third ranking producer of cabbage for processing and held fourth position in the growing of tomatoes, he said.

Production of Milk Improves Steadily at Earl Farm

By FRED THOMAS

TYPICAL OF Marion County dairy farms which are improving milk production and butterfat records each year is the George Earl farm east of Marion. In fact, George's farm is so typical that there's one just like it next door.

Each farm has 150 acres. Each produces about 35-40 acres of corn and 20-25 acres of wheat each year. Each farm uses about the same feeding and pasturing operations and each farm has a Holstein herd.

The farm right next to George Earl's belongs to his brother, Bill Earl.

THE INCREASING efficiency and production of George Earl's farm shows how Marion County dairy operations have been improving lately. George's butterfat and milk production have been increasing almost every year since he built a new barn in 1947.

Here's his record:

Year	Milk	butterfat
1947	9,678	324.1
1948	11,195	389.9
1949	12,224	429.9
1950	11,546	402.9
1951	12,297	440.6
1952	13,121	456.5

The 1952 record runs from August 1952 through July 1953.

George, chairman of the Marion County Dairy Service Unit, says this increase hasn't caused him much extra work for he has incorporated labor-saving devices to aid his operation. Before the new barn, containing 30 stanchions, was built, he milked 12-15 cows.

AMONG THE TIME and labor saving devices in the barn are a feeding cart and an automatic water trough for each Holstein. The feeding cart has replaced basket-carrying and the automatic water trough, which the cow operates by pushing, has replaced buckets.

Outdoors, George has more labor-saving devices.

"The best of them all is a manure loader," he says. "It operates hydraulically and has replaced hand-forking."

Another outdoor device is the field chopper which made it possible for Earl's grass to go twice as far last year.

"My cows weren't pastured at all last summer," he said. "I chopped green grass for them every day and fed them in a field." I figure an acre of grass went twice as far, for the cows didn't trample any down."

LEGUMES AND GRASS silage are used extensively on George and Bill's farms. Five or six years ago everyone fed corn silage to their cows but today it's grass, George said.

Some of George's increased prodution mayhave come from other sources. He's got more experienced help this year, all from the family, including: Lonnie, 18, former all-county basketball player at Claridon; Nancy, 13; Virginia, 7, and his wife, Mary Ellen. Nancy and Virginia attend Claridon School.

GEORGE EARL'S FARM east of Marion is typical of the county farms improving milk and butterfat production records.

LOWER: Virginia, 7, holds a month-old calf.

Crop Rotation Called Basis For Farming

OSU Agronomist Says Business Determined By Proper Selection

The crop rotation is the foundation on which the farm business rests. Its selection largely determines the entire farm business.

This was brought out last week by C. J. Willard, Ohio State University agronomist, at Farm and Home Week in Columbus.

To plan a rotation, farmers must know what it does for them. First, rotations make farming safer because different crops distribute labor, marketing risks and weather risks, Willard said.

Rotations help control some insects, weeds and soil-borne diseases, he said. Modern pest control methods make this less important, however. As result, rotations are more flexible.

Rotations are needed to control soil on many farms. However, they aren't a substitute for mineral fertilizers, Willard said. Grain, hay and straw all remove minerals from the soil, whether they are sold directly, or fed to livestock and the livestock sold. That decreases productivity of soil regardless of the rotation.

He said rotations that include the right crops do three things for the land: 1. Reduce erosion if enough sod crops are included; 2. Add nitrogen to the soil if sufficient legumes are included and rightly used; 3. Maintain and in some cases increase organic matter content of soils.

Sweet clover is the most efficient legume to put nitrogen in the roots and its use as a catch crop should be increased, he said. Sweet clover weevil, that decreased its use, can be controlled now.

Sod crops are the only effective way of controlling erosion on steeply sloping land. Recent experiment, however, shows that nitrogen from the fertilier sack may replace the other two functions of a rotation on level land, he said.

The value of any rotation in increasing grain production depends on the amount of nitrogen it returns to the soil for grain crops to use. Nitrogen fertilizer and low grade residues, such as cornstalks and straw, will maintain soil organic matter as well as legume crops plowed under. Willard said it also will maintain crop yields with rotations using higher proportions of grain.

The agronomist said it is ironical that this step for increasing production, particularly of corn, becomes important when attempts are being made to reduce total corn production. It's reminiscent of the introduction of hybrid corn in the 1930s when we were trying to reduce production.

A fundamental difficulty of acreage controls is that it upsets established crop rotations, he said.

Order blanks for trees are available in county extension offices.

Thinning Chemical Used To Eliminate Undesirable Fruit

Thanks to horticultural science, home owners can now get rid of mulberries, wild cherries, and other undesirable fruit without sacrificing the shade from the tree.

C. W. Ellenwood of the Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station says a chemical known as "dinitro" will perform the trick with a minimum of labor and expense.

Dinitro is merely a chemical thinning material used by commercial orchardists to reduce heavy fruit stand and increase the size of fruits. It comes in either a dry form or as a heavy liquid.

"Use dinitro at four times the concentration given for chemical thinning," Ellenwood recommends. "The proper time to spray is when the tree is in full bloom."

Ellenwood adds that dinitro will not permanently harm the tree, but will merely cause the blossoms to drop off before the fruit has a chance to set.

Poultrymen Asked To Start Watching Leucosis Problem

Now is the time for poultrymen to consider the problem of controlling outbreaks of leucosis in their laying flocks next fall, Clyde March, Ohio State University Poultry specialist, said last week at Farm and Home Week.

The leucosis complex is a serious disease of mature chickens. Research work has shown that chickens which develop the symptoms of leucosis when they are in the laying pens actually become infected very early in their life, Marsh said.

During the first few days after hatching the young chick is very susceptible to the virus agent which produces the disease. For this reason, a strict program of isolation brooding should be practiced, he said. No contact should be permitted between the young chicks and any older birds on the farm for at least the first thirty days of the brooding period. If it is at all possible a different person should take care of the chicks than takes care of the older flock for this period.

Marsh said once a flock of chickens becomes infected with the leucosis producing agent, there is no remedy to reduce the disease toll. This fact underscores the necessity of preventing exposure. Isolation brooding is the only practical method of accomplishing this.

Marion County Holstein Club Holds Yearly Dinner

Claridon Event Attended By 200 Members of Group, Visitors

Reports on Japan, heifer projects, a dairy program, the Green Acres Program and plans for the county fair were heard recently at the Marion County Holstein Club's annual banquet in Claridon School.

More than 200 members and friends attended the banquet. A total of 24 new junior members were introduced to the group.

A REPORT ON the club's registered Holstein heifer project was given by William Earl. He said members of the Marion junior club have won first prize for three straight years for the five best females at the Ohio State Fair. A heifer is purchased with the prize money and given to a boy or girl to start a Holstein herd, he said.

Ellwood Parrott reported on the club's Holstein steer project. He said 16 steers will be shown and sold at the 1954 County fair. Purpose of the project is to demonstrate that Holstein steers are more economical and profitable than other feeding cattle, he said.

THE CLUB'S Christian Rural Overseas Project was discussed by Harold Patrick. He said that four Holstein heifers had been donated to the project and that the club expects to give another one.

Arthur Smith, county agricultural extension agent, reported on the Green Acres program. Work of the Ohio State association during the last year was discussed by George Nichols Ohio field secretary from Wooster. Nichols said the Marion County club was one of the most active Holstein club's in Ohio.

Other talks were on Japanese life and the drink-more-milk campaign. Mrs. Richard Zachman discussed life in Japan and William Knowles, president of the Marion Milk Producers Association, reported on the campaign to increase consumption of dairy products.

Gomer Johnson, vice prsident of the county club, said that the Ohio Holstein Club has awarded an additional $75 prize money for this year's fair. The Marion County Club also pledged an additional $75.

Johnson, cattle superintendent of the fair, said 16 trophies will be given to winners of the Holstein Cattle Show at the county fair.

Z. C. KLINE, selected last week as one of Ohio's most efficient dairymen, received a trophy from the county club. Howard Cole, honored as an outstanding Ohio tester last week, presented the trophy to Kline.

Toastmaster at the banquet was Ferd Lawrence, president of the club. The invocation was read by Francis Fairchild and Claridon School students, under Robert Paxton's direction, furnished musical entertainment. Dinner was served by members of the Salem EUB Church.

The new junior club members, introduced by secretary-treasurer Loren Fulton, are: Ann and Carol Orlander, Paul Augenstein, Lonnie Gruber, Albert Cluff, Eugene Zachman, William Cluff, Lonnie and Nancy Earl, Leonard Crum, Kenneth Smith, Donald Lawrence, Robert Johnson, Gary Fairchild, Warren Zachman, Diane Smith, Wayne Cluff, Gene Cooper, Philip Brooks, Stanley Lawrence, Jo Earl, Richard Lawrence, Jerry Higgins, and Joe Lawrence.

Animal Health Advice Given

Keep Out Visitors, Cut Disease, Farmers Told

If farmers will keep visitors away from stock barns and poultry buildings they will help keep new diseases off the farm, the American Foundation for Animal Health says.

"Stringent precautions to keep all visitors away from livestock and poultry may seem harsh, but they will pay dividends in reduced disease losses," foundation officials said. "Visitors may bring in the germs and viruses of many diseases on their clothing and shoes. Such infectious diseases as hog cholera, fowl pox, erysipelas, shipping fever, and many others may be spread in this way."

The recent outbreak of foot-and-mouth disease in Canada may have resulted from the virus being brought from Europe on someone's clothing, foundation authorities indicated.

"Owners should not hesitate to keep visitors away from livestock quarters," officials said. "This is especially true when there are outbreaks of contagious diseases on nearby farms.

"Farmers should also apply the keep out rule to new stock brought to the farm. All newly-purchased animals should be held in quarantine long enough to make sure they are disease-free. If the new animals show disease symptoms, a veterinary diagnosis should be obtained so the trouble may be recognized and treated before it spreads to healthy animals."

Manure spread on farm fields contains weed and crop seeds that help tide wildlife lean months.

CRESTLINE YOUTH FINED

GALION — Gordon D. Ehrman, 19, of near Crestline was fined $15 and costs for reckless driving at a hearing in Municipal Court here Monday afternoon, by Mayor Frances C. Schulp. Another youth, Frederick H. DeGray, 18, of near Galion, who was with Ehrman, was charged with driving at high speed on N. Market St. late Saturday night. Speaker in Columbus

Benson Assistant Talks On Ike's Farm Program

Whether farmers follow a basic economic principle — the law of supply and demand is a point at which many persons begin to debate the administration farm program, a United States Department of Agriculture representative told a Farm and Home Week Audience last week in Columbus.

Don Paarlberg, assistant to the secretary of agriculture, Eza Taft Benson, summarized the President's major farm program proposals and replied to criticisms of policy. He staked the future of present governmental farm policies on what farmers do when prices drop.

"If farmers increase production when prices fall," he said, "then they act contrary to their own interests and contrary to the needs of consumers. Such a situation would be intolerable and would call for a full-fledged system of government controls.

—:—

"IF FARMERS DECREASE production when prices fall, then they make adjustments which are in the interests of all concerned and can safely be entrusted with a large degree of freedom in planning their production.

"Why are hogs now selling at 120 per cent of parity? Because farmers decreased their production in response to the low prices of 1952."

Paarlberg said prices of uncontrolled crops have averaged as high as prices of crops under control. Those which have not been controlled have had a balance of supply and demand at least equal to controlled crops.

THE ADMINISTRATION policy does not rely upon price to limit production of basic crops but plans to use price and production controls to bring about changes, Paarlberg said. That is part of one point he used to summarize the President's major farm program proposals — that price supports on basic commodities be changed from 90 per cent parity to a range of 75 to 90 per cent depending on supply.

Other proposals include: 1. that some storage stocks be eliminated from price support computations to ease transition to the new program; 2. that the federal government help increase U.S. farm products exports — in and out of normal channels of trade; 3. that parity be modernized to include changes in supply and demand since 1910-14, and 4. That agricultural conservation program funds to go to help farmers adjust when land must be taken out of production.

Paarlberg pointed out that interests of farmers, consumers and the nation are identical. "The complete interdependence of rural and urban America is now generally recognized," he said.

SUMMARIZING CRITICISMS of present farm legislation, the U.S.D.A. representative said, "The program is costly . . ." Borrowing authority of the Commodity Credit Corporation is proposed to be $8.5 billion. Surplus stocks are accumulating . . ." He also listed inability to maintain farm prices, misuse of agricultural resources, restriction of the domestic market, loss of export markets and attraction of foreign farm products into competition on domestic markets.

"The present high state of efficiency on American farms," Paarlberg continued, "is not because of high price supports but largely because, historically, farmers have had a substantial degree of freedom in management of their farms and because the fruits of research and education have been made available to them."

EMPHASIZING THAT changes would be moderate, the speaker said the proposed farm program would reduce the quantity of storage stocks and the cost of the program. He said removal of "the incentive to produce unneeded quantities" would permit use of resources in line with capabilities and with needs of consumers.

He said support prices could move either up or down under the recommended farm program. Price floors would be between 75 and 90 per cent parity but there would be "discretionary authority to support the price at higher levels."

For the Record

By George Sokolsky

There is enough dirt in the current Cohn - Adams quarrel without dragging anti-Semitism and anti-Catholicism into it and those who are doing it are definitely performing a disservice to the United States.

SOKOLSKY

I see that Drew Pearson and others have engaged in conveying unchecked information describing a meeting at which only Bernard Baruch, Joe McCarthy and I were present. None of the purveyors of misinformation were there. None of them can know first-hand what occurred there.

I have never read more lies about a quiet three-quarters of an hour meeting in all the six decades of my life. My own silence about it up to now is due to a repugnance for breaching an elemental rule of hospitality which even newspaper reporters are expected to follow.

The meeting occurred only because Bernard Baruch and Sen. McCarthy had never met before and each expressed a curiosity to see the other. Baruch was concerned over what seemed to him a generalization about his old alma mater, the College of the City of New York, which he felt was unfair. McCarthy had told me that he had corrected the erroneous implication.

I have for Baruch not only a high regard and respect but a deep affection. Joe McCarthy and I are friends and he was, on that particular day, my guest.

So I brought the men together for a short visit. I had a feeling that Baruch really wanted to have a look at this unusual personality and McCarthy wanted to know this extraordinarily brilliant mind. There could have been no other prupose for the meeting.

Baruch is a courtly gentleman who never runs out of manners. He would not receive a man and insult him. McCarthy approached Baruch deferentially, as a younger man would one of Baruch's age and achievements. I must say that I have never seen Joe more mannerly.

The conversation started on the City College theme but passed swiftly because McCarthy said that he had already expressed his regrets that his statement had been so broad but that his regrets had gone unnoticed.

The subject then turned to world Communism, each contributing something of his experience. Baruch spoke of the necessity of facing up to this Marxist disease. I found this part of the conversation extremely interesting. Both avoided any reference to the current quarrels.

I have seen it mentioned in one or two peephole columns, and Drew Pearson repeats it, that McCarthy attacked the Jewish managers of the great radio networks.

-:-

THIS IS A LIE. Nothing of the sort was said. McCarthy was punctilious in not overstepping the bounds of hospitality, giving Baruch the lead in the conversation. Not once were the words "Jew" or "Jewish" spoken by either party.

Then the conversation turned on flexible price supports in agriculture. Baruch spoke admiringly of Ezra Taft Benson. McCarthy did not commit himself on this subject.

Ten minutes or so before the party broke up, Roy Cohn, who was supposed to be present, showed up and we went our way.

Drew Pearson makes the point that those who were present will deny his allegations. I go further. I state categorically and would do so under oath if necessary that whoever told Pearson or anybody else a story different from this eye and ear witness account of what occurred planted an untruthful story and those who are repeating falsehoods ought to go after him for doing it.

I AM SURE that if McCarthy or anyone else abused Baruch's hospitality by making an improper request of him or intimidating him, Baruch would know how to close the session. The least he could do would be to shut off his hearing aid. At no time did either party refer to the rejection of time for McCarthy by the radio networks nor was the name of President Eisenhower mentioned. It was an unfocussed conversation.

Actually, the interview was surrounded by all the urbanities of civilized, mature men, who greeted each other as new acquaintances do and departed with the usual amenities.

Something has been made of the New York police being in the hall outside Baruch's door, because someone had threatedned to kill the senator.

This is all there is to it and whoever says differently lies. I write this for the record.

One of the youths, Robert Moore, 19, of 526 Toledo Ave., and the young woman, Miss Elizabeth Eua Miller of 142 S. Vine St., were each fined $25 and costs and given suspended jail terms of 30 days in Marion County Juvenile Court.

Another youth, Robert Nelson, 18, of 383 E. George St., pleaded not guilty and his hearing has been set for April 6. The juveniles involved will also appear before Juvenile Judge Edward J. Rizzo at the same time. The juveniles include two 14-year-old girls, one 15-year-old girl, and three 17-year-old boys, Campbell said. The other older youth is still to be arrested, he said.

The arrests were made as a result of an investigation of two all-night parties at the home of one of the juvenile girls and some afternoon parties at the home of another, Campbell said.

Knowledge of First Aid Gains Young Widow a Husband

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Wedding bells will ring Friday for a 28-year-old widow and an Air Force sergeant who met when she applied newly acquired first aid knowledge which may have saved his life.

Mrs. Donna Davis was the first to reach an auto accident March 17 in which T Sgt. Leonard Schmidt, 33, suffered a severe head cut.

Having finished a first aid course the night before, Mrs. Davis correctly applied pressure to Schmidt's temple, cutting off the flow of blood. Doctors said this probably saved his life.

A whirlwind courtship followed and the couple announced yesterday they plan to marry Friday at Franklin, Ky.

Visitor Was Mistaken, Radio Police Property

BALTIMORE (AP)—About 300 persons filed through Northwestern police station yesterday in an effort to identify a cache of stolen goods put on display by police.

One visitor had barely reached the doorway of the squad room when he raised his arm, pointed and said:

"That's my radio. I'd know it anywhere."

But police didn't put the radio on the list of items identified. It belonged to the police.

Way of Life

By Victor Riesel

We would have had some disagreements, my father and I, were he alive today. He was a little union official and to him his union was always right. His was — and is today — a special union. It always considered its members not just as dues payers but as people.

RIESEL

There are five women in the city who must feel as my dad did, for they owe their lives today to this union of old tradition. They are back at work at their sewing machines—instead of dying slowly of cancer. Their union — the AFL International Ladies Garment Workers — saw to that.

Eight months ago the union's Northeast Department, headed by David Gingold, a vice-president of the ILGW, launched a cancer detection campaign unprecedented inside labor. Eight hundred women members went through the union's Health Center.

Painlessly, and in a few minutes, they underwent the "pap smear test," devised by Dr. George W. Papanicolaou. Soon five of the 800 knew they were in the early stages of cancer.

EARLY ENOUGH, however, so that the doctors could hospitalize them, remove the malignancy and send them home well in a short time. Four are back at their jobs. The fifth has just left the hospital. Soon she too will be back earning her daily bread.

It took eight months for the Health Center at 33 Harrison Ave., in Boston to process the needle workers. Of the 15 such Health Centers run by this union across the nation, this is the first to run the cancer test. Soon all will launch mass cancer detection programs, with the complete approval of the American Cancer Society.

Point here is that the union doesn't just examine its people once and then forget them. According to Gingold, they are checked at least once a year—for cancer and all other possible afflictions.

What is fascinating is that once again this union of which volatile David Dubinsky is president, in keeping with its tradition of regarding the class struggle as an idiot's delight, has found the middle way. It can well become the compromise between private and governmental medicine.

These union Health Centers do not treat their people. They diagnose. Then they refer the sick either to their family doctors or to the appropriate specialists. Result is that the members get medical treatment and there is income for the private physicians, since the center does not usurp the functions of the doctor.

It may amaze many in this thermonuclear era; but this union discovered that most of its people, well over 60 percent in fact, had not visited doctors for anywhere from six to 11 years.

THESE CENTERS range from Boston and Fall River, Mass., to Dallas, Houston and San Antonio, Tex., and on as far as Los Angeles. Where the shops are too scattered for coverage by one center, the union puts its clinics on wheels. There are such mobile units now operating out of Harrisburg, Pa., criss-crossing that state.

In all, Dubinsky and his colleagues have covered 326,000 of their 430,000 followers. The last union convention records show that more than 73 million dollars was spent by the ILGWU between 1950 and 1953 in the medical and welfare fields.

What did this money go for?

In Boston I learn that the Health Center has given complete diagnostic examinations to 11,087 members. There have been 7-705 eye examinations and 18,227 separate X-rays. More than 38,500 members have come in for all sorts of assistance. At the last count, 106,479 distinctly different kinds of services had been provided to members. There have been 7,705 eye building.

These centers swiftly become vital parts of the community. In Fall River, for example, the union renovated its health headquarters last year. City authorities came out for the opening ceremony. And the street where the center stands has been officially renamed "Garment Workers Square," as a token of the city's appreciation.

NO COMMUNITY is too big for such help by this union. In New York, the union Health Center—which patched me up on Feb. 17, 1934 (how well I remember the date), after the Communists raided a union meeting in Madison Square Garden and cut some of us up—gave chest x-rays last year to 40,000 workers.

Of these, 65 might have died. They had TB. But they were saved. Some 300 are doubtful cases and are being carefully followed and treated.

That's why this union is really a way of life—for its people and for its communities. It marches along the middle of the road continuing to do good—even as time picks off the old idealists, like my dad.

Thinking Pays

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK

Everybody's familiar with the average millionaire's success story. He stuck his nose to the grindstone as a boy and kept it there 24 hours a day until, years later, he suddenly found his pockets heavy.

HAL BOYLE

This dull formula probably explains the average man's steadfast refusal to become rich, and for some time I have been searching for either a millionaire or a politician willing to blame his wealth or fame on something besides hard work.

The search ended with Julius Stulman, 47, a tall, white - haired Brooklyn multi-millionaire lumber dealer who looks and talks like a university dean.

STULMAN MADE his first million before he was 30—that first one always is the hardest—and then he really began sawing wood in the big leagues.

"I averaged $10,000 a year selling lumber from the time I was 17 to 21," he recalled, "in those days that was a lot of money for a kid."

Stulman thinks hard work alone is a pretty poor way to try to labor yourself into the millionaire class. But his own system sounds even more frightening to a man with a restful outlook:

"Hard thinking!"

"It isn't the time you spend working that's important. It is the thinking you do.

"If you find yourself feeling overworked, you have become the slave of a routine that isn't letting you get the most out of your talents.

Stulman made his fortune, by and large, by a mental game. He pretends he is living in the year 2,000 he says, and this helps him make long-range business decisions.

"Peope too often made themselves prisoners of the values accepted in their own time," he said. "But much of what was accepted as true 200 years ago today is regarded as false, and much of what we accept as so now will be regarded as wrong by 2,000.

"A good businessman should be a good philosopher. He shouldn't lose himself in contemporary values, or old ways of doing things. He should engineer his thinking to catch the trend of the future, the feel of tomorrow, when the values will be changed and business methods different."

STULMAN THINKS that an executive who gets bogged down with details needs to "step out of his own frame of mind" in order to get the different slant needed to solve his business problems.

"Success in business or in life cannot be measured with a clock," he remarked. "Time itself is not important. For many years I carried a watch with me wherever I went, but I never wound it. I did this to remind me not to be bound by time."

Stulman feels the possibility of a depression in America at this time is "utterly ridiculous," and that the world is at the door of an ever-expanding economy that will raise the living standards of all.

His idea of how to achieve this goal: For you . . . and you . . . and you . . . to start thinking now as if you were living in the year 2,000.

He is convinced few people become millionaires until they begin thinking like one—instead of trying to act like one.

Trinity Church Plans Addition and Remodeling

Fund Drive Begins; Campaign Goal Is $150,000

The congregation of the Trinity Baptist Church on S. Main St. is launching this week a financial campaign to raise funds to enlarge the sanctuary and increase the educational facilities of the church.

Plans call for an extensive renovation of the rear of the sanctuary, including the removal of the present archway, the construction of a balcony and a revamping of the lighting system. There will be also a three-story addition adjoining the educational wing and extending to the alley on the south side of the church, Rev. J. B. Holloway announced.

A building committee was appointed last year to study the needs of the church and a questionaire was circulated among the members of the congregation to ascertain the popular opinion regarding the proposed project. As a result of this study, the church voted to set a goal of $150,000 to finance the dual building project and include also Trinity's share of $7,200 of the American Baptist Convention campaign to raise $8,350,000 for church extension, popularly known as "Churches for New Frontiers."

The Trinity Church was organized in 1912, being the union of two congregations, the Free Baptist Church and the First Baptist Church. The former congregation dated back to 1824 and had moved its location from E. Center St. to the present Trinity location with a membership of approximately 200.

NO MAJOR changes have been made in the structure of the edifice since its completion and dedication in 1908. The congregation purchased the Kowalke property adjoining the church in 1944 and converted the residence into a Youth Center which has given an opportunity for expansion and growth, particularly among the youth groups. During the past decade there has been a steady growth in the Sunday School enrollment and in the church membership which now exceeds 1,000.

Brochures showing proposed changes in the structure of the sanctuary and the new educational addition and giving facts, figures and illustrations supporting the need for the financial campaign were mailed to the members of the congregation this week.

A RECENT bequest of $15,000 from the estate of the late Florence Durfee has been added to the building fund endowment which has been accumulating over a period of years and has now reached a total of $32,000. Included in these bequests were those from the Harding family, who were members of the Trinity Church. The late President Harding was a trustee for a period of 25 years before his death.

Teams of canvassers are calling upon all the church families this week to secure pledges in terms of shares of $100 each, or $1 per week for 100 weeks. The building committee is composed of Frank C. Robinson, H. Clay Smith, V. E. Cogan, L. J. Ashworth, Fred V. Smith, Floyd B. Burtch, B. M. Myers, Mrs. Kenneth Albert, Mrs. T. O. McClure and the pastor.

Trustees in charge of all church property, including invested funds, includes H. Clay Smith, V. E. Cogan, Milford Hazen, T. O. McClure, E. R. Fichtner and W. H. Brown.

The canvassing committee is composed of four co-chairmen, L. J. Ashworth, Milford Hazen, B. M. Myers and Floyd B. Burtch, and seven co-captains of districts into which the city has been divided, northeast, Mr. and Mrs. William C. Brown; northwest, Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Brewer; west, Mr. and Mrs. Fred V. Smith; southwest, Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Stetson; south, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce C. Snider; southeast, Mr. and Mrs. John W. Cottrell; and east, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Johnston. More than 60 workers are assisting the committee in making the canvass and will hold their first report meeting at the church Monday night.

NEW EDUCATIONAL UNIT planned for Trinity Baptist Church is shown to the right in the architect's drawing above. Space to the south of the church on S. Main St. is now occupied by Trinity House, which is used as a youth center by the congregation. The church launched a building campaign this week to increase the present building fund.

$25,000 Sought In Damage Suit

Action Filed as Result Of 1952 Auto Accident

A $25,000 damage suit arising from a traffic accident Sept. 20, 1952 on Route 30-S east of Marion has been filed in Marion County Common Pleas Court.

Virginia Pfahler of Columbus filed the suit against Paul J. Augenstein and Paul W. Augenstein. The Columbus woman in her petition says she was a passenger in a west-bound automobile driven by her husband, Lloyd, when Paul J. Augenstein backed a truck onto the highway and into the path of a motor vehicle operated by John Ray Winters which was heading east.

This action caused the Winters vehicle to strike the truck and then rebound into the path of the Pfahler car, which swerved into a utility pole to avoid a head-on collision, the plaintiff states. She asks $25,000 damages for severe and permanent injuries to her head, spine and nervous system.

Attorneys for the plaintiff are members of the law firm of Mayer and McClellan of Mansfield.

Other board members are Robert E. White, Michael C. O'Brien, Ray Geer, Harry Gast, Norris Hill, Arthur Haberman, Russell Snare and William Campbell. Next meeting was called for April 8.

Russia May Talk

Eisenhower himself said earlier there is some possibility the Russians are getting ready to talk business about a plan for international peacetime use of atomic energy.

He made this statement when asked what significance the government attaches to the recent publication by the Russians of some details of their atomic and H-weapon research.

The President said he didn't know—but that many discussions have been held and the result is inconclusive.

There are some, he went on, apparently meaning some of his advisers, who think this indicates a change in Soviet policy and a disposition to negotiate earnestly and honestly.

Man Held to Jury Admits Coat Theft

Charles Raymond Stewart, 24, of 635 W. Columbia St., being held in the Marion County jail on $1,000 bond pending grand jury action on a charge of receiving stolen property, Tuesday admitted stealing a brown leather jacket he was wearing.

Stewart admitted the theft after Curtis Chamberlin of LaRue said the jacket was stolen from his automobile parked at Pop and Jerry's, south of Marion on March 13. Chamberlin told Sheriff Glenn Obenour he had seen Stewart wearing the jacket and after reading about Stewart's arrest in connection with his complicity in a LaRue store burglary, decided to claim his jacket.

Stewart was bound over to the grand jury Tuesday along with Jack Hudkins, 21, of 769 N. State St., who admitted breaking into the Lingo store in LaRue last Wednesday morning. He gave some of the clothing to Stewart.

Sheriff Obenour this morning did not know whether Chamberlin would file charges against Stewart.

burglary and grand larceny charges, Green said.

The two youths escaped the Marion Training School apparently by climbing a fence along the south side of the training school compound, then stealing a 1949 automobile owned by one of the guards. The car was later found in Alabama.

Hale was taken into custody about the first of March by Kentucky state police and was held there until returned to Marion yesterday, Green said.

He was confined to the training school on an auto theft charge from Butler County. His home was in London, Ky.

Chaney was serving a one to 15 year sentence given him on burglary and grand larceny charges in Fulton County on June 24, 1952. His home was in St. Louis, Mo.

Two Traffic Accidents Reported by City Police

Two minor no injury traffic accidents were reported today by Marion police. The state highway patrol and sheriff's deputies reported no accidents on county highways for the second day in a row.

One of the city mishaps occurred at 11:59 a.m. Tuesday at Jefferson St. and Kentucky Ave. It involved cars driven by Richard O. Darby, 45, of 483 Decatur St. and Albert F. Meachem, 36, of 716 Kentucky Ave.

The other collision occurred Tuesday afternoon at the alley intersection with N. Main St. at the Jim Dugan store. Cars involved were driven by Clyde Ashworth, 28, of 208 Chicago Ave. and Harry Crawbaugh, 33, of 343 Brightwood Dr.

Crawford County's GOP Group Names Three Candidates

BUCYRUS — The Crawford County Republican Executive Committee, at a meeting held here Monday night, gave its endorsement to three candidates at the May 4 primary.

The committee endorsed George Bender, Cleveland congressman, now a candidate for U.S. Senator; Mrs. Martha Wheatcraft, Galion, and Robert L. Evans, Findlay, candidates for re-election as state Republican central committeemen.

Mrs. Wheatcraft, who has been a state central committeewoman since 1946, is unopposed. Evans, a committeeman since 1948, is opposed by Tennyson Guyer, also of Findlay.

Cong. Bender is opposed for the GOP senatorial nomination by William Saxbe, speaker of the Ohio House and a Mechanicsburg attorney.

Laird said he conferred at the White House with Wilton B. Persons, presidential liaison man with Congress, about the support level.

"It was my understanding last week that President Eisenhower was perfectly agreeable to modification of the order to make the cut only 82½ per cent instead of 75," Laird said.

"Contacts were made with Secretary Benson. But Benson received support for his position from various state farm bureaus and he believed his position was sound.

"The information I received from very high sources is that, when the President sought to have Benson change his position, the secretary informed him that he would not have a secretary of agriculture if he insisted."

Wholesale Food Prices Are Highest in 38 Years

NEW YORK (AP)—Wholesale food prices as measured by Dun & Bradstreet climbed this week to their highest point since the agency started keeping records in 1916.

At $7.42, the index was up 17.4 per cent from the same week of 1953, when it stood at $6.32. It compared with $7.34 last week and with the previous high of $7.36 on July 13, 1948.

"I have faith that if the President stands firmly for what he believes in, he will have the support of the country."

He went on to say that "we have suffered the penalty" of the defeat of the League of Nations, and added:

"It is better to forget it all and do the best we can in unity—to make the best of a sad situation. We cannot avoid playing an important part in world affairs. That part would be difficult without unity.

"It will be hard to accomplish our mission unless we crush evil movements that beset us now. We can hardly expect to attain international leadership unless we can agree among ourselves."

Pirates Pacing Major League Exhibition Standings

Buc Pitcher Whitewashes Bosox; Sluggers Connecting

By ED CORRIGAN
AP Sports Writers

What's this?

The Pittsburgh Pirates atop the Grapefruit League standings hitting home runs all over the place and one of their pitchers tossing a shutout?

The Pirates have been riding along in high gear all spring and their sluggers have been hitting—they already have 30 home runs—but not even the most optimistic Buccaneer would have predicted that 23 year old Bob Friend would whitewash the powerful Boston Red Sox

That he did yesterday with the Pirates taking the decision 3 0 He also became the first of Fred Haney's pitchers to go nine full innings The Pirate flingers amassed a total of four shutouts all last season

Friend who has spent his entire major league career (three years) with the Pirates gave up but three hits and walked only one He also contributed a pair of singles

The Chicago Cubs with Coach Bob Schuffing at the helm former Manager Phil Cavarretta in the stands and new pilot Stan Hack on the way defeated the Baltimore Orioles 3 1 Johnny Klippstein pitched six shutout innings and Hank Sauer and Ernie Banks hit home runs Joe Coleman went all the way for Baltimore, allowing six hits

The Philadelphia Phillies nipped The Cleveland Indians beat the New York Giants 2 1 Old Sal Maglie continued to impress the Western camp followers by going five innings and being tapped for only one hit

The Philadelphia Phillies nipped the world champion New York Yankees 7 6 with the Yanks' main stock in trade—a home run Del Ennis hit it off rookie Bob Grim to break a 6-6 tie in the fifth inning

The Brooklyn Dodgers sent Don Zimmer the heir apparent to Pee Wee Reese's shortstop job to their Vero Beach Fla replacement center to await assignment to one of their farms The Boston Red Sox sold catcher Gus Niarhos to Louisville of the American Assn

Don Cockell Gains Upset Over Rollie

LONDON (AP)—Don Cockell Britain's farmer blacksmith boxer a real tripe thrower, was the man of the hour here today and 3 000 miles across the Atlantic Ocean heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano no doubt was doing some fast calculating

Cockell who grew too heavy to plod his way along the light heavyweight trail outpointed Roland Lastarza, last night in Earls Court Arena and immediately skyrocketed to a contending role in the heavyweight picture

Except for the first four rounds the fight wasn't even close Cockell a 2 1 underdog took over in the fifth and piled up points the rest of the way Some British experts had margin as wide as 8 2 in rounds

For four rounds Lastarza looked as though he intended to do a workmanlike job on Cockell But the Britisher caught wise in the fifth became the aggressor and broke up Lastarza's counterpunching

Rollie never really hurt me said the dumpy victor It was nice to win A very close mouthed lad

His manager John Simpson said there have been no definite offers to fight Marciano

"If I get an offer and it's good enough I'll take it" he said If nothing else comes along we'll probably fight Harry Matthews in Seattle again"

Cockell was warned four times about low blows and Lastarza and his manager Jimmy De Angelo both said the American would have been disqualified if it had been the other way around

To tell the truth" said Lastarza ruefully "I was expecting this I was told before I came that I'd have to win by a knockout I was slow starting and fought a bad fight But I think I won

Try for a knockdown Rollie did—and desperately in the 10th and final round It was a real melee with Lastarza striving desperately to connect But he had neither the power nor the aim When it ended he was working so hard he didn't even hear the bell and Referee Gene Henderson had to get him in a headlock and drag him to his corner

Lastarza weighed 189 ½ to Cockell's 211 The victory was Cockell's 57th against 10 losses while for Lastarza it was his fifth defeat against 54 triumphs

In the supporting bouts former world middleweight champion Randy Turpin outpointed Olle Bengtsson of Sweden and Yolande Pompey 167¾ Trinidad outpointed Ivano Fontana 174¼ Italy Weights in the Turpin Bengtsson fight were not announced

Cleveland Barons Request Use of Heller for Playoffs

OTT HELLER

The Cleveland Barons today were awaiting a ruling from the American Hockey League office on their request to have Ott Heller coach of the Marion Barons named eligible for play with the Cleveland club in the Calder Cup playoffs of the AHL

The Barons have requested permission to use Heller as a replacement for defenseman Steve Kraft check who is nursing a bad shoulder bruise Reinstance has cropped up in the league office over General Manager Jim Hendy's request to use the Marion player coach

Heller a veteran of 20 years as a professional hockey performer played five games at defense last spring in the Barons successful bid for the cup He aided the team in downing Pittsburgh for the championship

Despite the fact Heller has more than 20 years under his belt of them with the New York Rangers he is considered an amateur under hockey classifications Last year he was player coach of the New Haven entry in the Eastern League before his assignment here this season

Under rules of the American Hockey League the Cleveland club says an amateur may be added to a club's roster at any time during the season or playoffs However Heller's status is being questioned

The Barons won their opening series in playoff play from Buffalo and now will meet the winner of the Hershey - Pittsburgh set League President John Sollenberger who must rule on Heller's eligibility is also head man of the Hornets Berths

Should the 43 year-old Heller be reinstated eligible for the playoffs he will be the second member of the Marion hockey club in action with the parent Cleveland team Murray Wilkie a wingman played most of the season here and will be in Cleveland uniform for the set

Fighters Set For Friday's Title Scrap

CHICAGO (AP)—Bobo Olson and Kid Gavilan seem satisfied they are as ready as ever before for their big fight—and both are sticking with the techniques that brought them each a championship

Olson, the middleweight title holder ended limbering for Friday's match with a five round sparring session yesterday and Gavilan the welterweight champion went a couple of final rounds

It's Olson's 160 pound crown is at stake but the real contest raised to thunder at Chicago Stadium

Olson has technical advisers say camp spokesmen—sometimes manager Sid Flaherty wants him to take off the light exercises from here on out to avoid overtraining

For just about the first time since he became champion Olson found making the 147 pound welterlimit is less than a ton he had has no weight problem—it's the seven or eight pounds he will spot Bobo

The Cuban scored a sharp 153 and feeling so trim that he devoted a four round workout for an hour and a half yesterday in favor of a poker game When he finally did appear in the Midwest A C ring it was only a gesture to please a group of gym fans He just went through the motions

Olson has made no secret of his intention to attack with the brisk aggressive tactics that earned him 54 victories in 60 fights and next to the setting out the world's championship in a bout with hands Turpin

He can't keep me away" says Olson I've conquered better men than him on the ropes

Flaherty says his fighter's style short hooks and uppercuts and occasional overhand rights thrown constantly from on top of the other guy—will wear down the kid

Gavilan won't be able to get set for those flurries of his against Bobo" says Flaherty

Gavilan on the other hand is confident he can make Olson uncomfortable at long range—where his well known flurries pay off

Cleveland Barons Request Use of Heller for Playoffs

The Cleveland Barons today were awaiting a ruling from the American Hockey League office on their request to have O. Heller, coach of the Marion Barons, named eligible for play with the Cleveland club in the Calder Cup playoffs of the AHL.

The Barons have requested permission to use Heller as a replacement for defenseman Steve Kraftcheck who is nursing a bad shoulder bruise. Resistance has cropped up in the league office over General Manager Jim Hendy's request to use the Marion player-coach.

Heller, a veteran of 20 years as a professional hockey performer, played five games at defense last spring in the Barons successful bid for the cup. He added the team in downing Pittsburgh for the championship.

CHICAGO (AP)—Both Bobo Olson and Kid Gavilan seem satisfied they are as ready as they ever will be for their big fight—and both are sticking with the techniques that brought them each a championship.

Olson, the middleweight title holder, ended his duties for Friday's match with a five-round sparring session yesterday. Gavilan, the welterweight champion, will get a couple of final days.

Big Olson's 160-pound frame is at stake in the ring wars. He's used to rounder at Chicago Stadium.

Olson has reached a fine edge, say camp spokesmen—so much so that manager Sid Flaherty wants him to take only the lighter exercises from here on out to avoid overtraining.

For just about the first time since he became a champion and found making the 160-pound weight limit less than a joy, the Kid has no weight problem—unless it's the seven or eight pounds he will spot Bobo.

The Cuban senior is a sleek 153 and feeling so trim that he delayed a four-round workout for an hour and a half yesterday in favor of a poker game. When he finally did appear in the Midwest A.C. ring it was only a gesture to please a group of gym fans. He just went through the motions.

Olson has made no secret of his intention to attack with the busy, aggressive tactics that earned him 54 victories in 60 fights and next to the last time out the world's championship in a bout with Randy Turpin.

He can't keep me away," says Olson. I've cornered better men than him on the ropes.

Flaherty says his fighter's style—short hooks and uppercuts and occasional overhand rights thrown constantly from on top of the other guy—will wear down the Kid.

Gavilan won't be able to get set for those flurries of his against Bobo, says Flaherty.

Gavilan on the other hand is confident he can make Olson fight at long range—where his well-known flurries pay off.

Lenten Meditations

This is one in a series of Lenten meditations prepared by the members of the Marion County Ministerial Association for publication in The Star.

Christian Growth

By REV. FREDERICK W. LEECH
Rector of St. Paul's Episcopal Church

"Being confident of this very thing, He which hath begun a good work in you will perform it until the day of Jesus Christ."—Philippians 1:6.

"Lent" is from an Anglo-Saxon word which refers to the season of the year when the days lengthen. This is spring. It is the season when things begin to grow again.

In these words from Philippians, St. Paul reminds us that God plans for His children a steady growth. A good beginning is not enough; continuous progress is necessary. The Christian who stands still is really slipping. One who is casual and negligent about worship; goes to church when the fancy pleases, is not growing. The Christian should always be growing in wisdom and inner stature.

It is God's intention in those in whom He has begun a good work, to bring it to completion. Often those who are converted are tempted to rest on their laurels; to assume that they have already achieved the goal; to complacently look on their record. Such self-satisfaction is fatal to Christian growth.

St. Paul can rightly be called a saint, but even he did not count himself already perfect. He said, "forgetting those things which are behind, and reaching forth unto those things which are before, I press toward the mark for the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus." (Phil. 3:13, 14)

Lent is the Christian's own special growing season.

PRAYER: Almighty God, grant that we may walk in the way of the Cross, and find it the way of life and growth and peace, through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

Trapper To Lose Job

DENTON, Tex. (AP)—Floyd Green, who has trapped or killed from 3 to 10 coyotes each month for two years, is out of a job on July 1. The county wolf trapper is being dismissed, the Denton County Livestock Assn. said yesterday, because the cattlemen's organization has no funds to pay his salary.

ABORTION RING SMASHED

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP) — Police said today they smashed an abortion business which may have extended to many Ohio, Kentucky and Indiana cities. They arrested Frances Hamilton, 60, of nearby New Miami yesterday and charged her with abortion. "Apparently she performed so many abortions that she completely lost track of the number," said Police Chief John A. Bippus.

SHORT SPORTS

By John Short

Vic Wurm, Chatfield High School athletic ace, who is winding up his high school career, last night received a giant trophy from Coach Bill McCullough for his achievements.

SHORT

Despite the fact Vic has performed in basketball, track and baseball throughout his high school career, it was only the second athletic award he had received. Under a plan at Chatfield, a varsity performer may accept his first varsity letter and then apply any others toward a trophy which is awarded during his senior year. The trophy last night marked the 11th monogram won by Wurm, who was a unanimous selection for All-County after the recent Crawford County chase.

Coach McCullough made the presentation during the annual father-son basketball banquet at the school. Wurm in turn presented the school with the trophy awarded him for his all-county berth.

McCullough, who guided his cagers to third place in the Crawford County tournament, finished with a 16-7 record. After qualifying for the district at Mansfield, the Chatfield crew was eliminated in the first game by the rugged Sycamore quintet. The reserve squad ended the campaign with a 16-2 mark.

In a brief address in which he thanked the cagers for their cooperation and hard work during the season, McCullough termed himself "One of the luckiest coaches in the state." He told his graduating charges, "You're not only good players but you'll be good men."

Biggest problem confronting the Chatfield coach now is weather conditions. McCullough was scheduled to open his track season this afternoon with a meet against New Washington and Whetstone. At 10:30 last night the meet was still on tap and Bill was holding off until the last minute with plans to call it off.

The boys are anxious to begin defense of their county title. Last year in the county meet, Chatfield narrowly missed setting a new scoring record. The runners finished with 50 points, just four shy of the record when one runner who finished third stumbled near the finish line to miss a first place spot.

During their visit to the state basketball tournament last week, the boys ran from their hotel to the Arena in an effort to speed up their conditioning.

2 Leagues Planned

Baseball for Boys Program Extended To Cover Youths From County Areas

A county baseball league for boys 14 through 16 years of age was organized Monday night at a meeting of Marion Baseball for Boys Commission officials and interested persons in the county at the YMCA.

Representatives at the first meeting to get the league under way were Bob Shoemaker of Marion, Fred McCumber of Prospect, Maurice Young of Green Camp, Len Walls of Caledonia and Vern Hensel of Morral.

Player Shortage

The group discussed the possibility of some county villages not having enough playing personnel to field a team and decided to have teams represented by school districts. Tentative arrangements call for teams from Caledonia, Martel and Claridon; Waldo and Pleasant; Green Camp and New Bloomington; and LaRue and Meeker. Prospect and Morral will field teams from their own communities and Marion will field possibly two teams.

Officials are attempting to have two four-team leagues but the split hasn't been decided. Plans call for each team to play 18 games over a nine-week period, with the champs of each loop meeting for the county championship at the end of the season. Games will consist of seven innings and will be played on a regulation baseball field under regulation baseball rules.

The group decided not to affiliate with the national organiation the first year but to get the league running smoothly and to affiliate with the national group the next year.

John Luginbuhl, Baseball for Boys president here, who told the group of the program in Maron, called the meeting a very enthusiastic one. Charles Morbitt, general manager of the Basball for Boys program here, was also present at the meeting.

Officials explained that county year-olds in order to give them enough players for a team. Marion teams will be using only 15 and 16-year olds as 14 year-old youths are covered in the present Pony League program here.

Second Meeting Set

Another meeting has been set for Monday at 8:15 p.m. at the YMCA at which time election of officers of the county Baseball for Boys Commission will take place. The commission will be made up of three members and a manager from each team. It will be the commission's job to formulate the league policies, rules and regulations.

Vern Hensel was named temporary secretary of the county group and was in charge of last night's meeting.

Upper Sandusky Track Season To Open Friday

UPPER SANDUSKY — Coach Fenton Wolfe and members of the high school track team are working out despite rough weather in an effort to be ready for the opening meeting of the season at Clyde Friday afternoon.

Top events of the spring sport this year will include the night relays here May 11 with a full schedule of events for both Class A and B teams. Another important date is May 15 when the annual NOL meet will be at Tiffin Columbian.

Columbian is a new member of the NOL this year. Bellevue is the defending champion. The Upper Rams, champions five times in the last seven years, will be reaching for a come back. Galion was the champ in 1949.

Softball Commissioners Schedule First Meeting

The City Softball Commission will hold its first meeting of the year Thursday night.

Harold Smith, commission president, announced today the meeting would be held at 8 p.m. in Room 202 of the YMCA and urged all members to be present.

Plans for the coming season will be discussed.

County Alumni Of Ohio State Make Record

Marion County alumni of Ohio State University marked up several records in their contributions to the university development fund in 1953, the university reported today.

The number of contributors exceeded the number of alumni in the area, thus giving the county credit for more than 100 per cent alumni participation.

The contributions totaled $6,018 to top last year's quota of $810 by some $5,200.

This meant the local alumni gave 743 per cent of their quota for the year—a total which was topped only by the Detroit area in which 929 alumni gave 1 830 per cent of their quota of $2,314.

W. A. Dunning, past president of the local alumni association said this was the best record marked up during the last three years. In each of those years, including 1953 the local organization has earned a development fund scholarship for a Marion County boy or girl.

Plans for the awarding of the scholarship earned last year are presently under way and students interested may obtain more information from the office of L. L. Dickey, Marion city superintendent of schools, Dunning said.

Jack Weis is chairman of the local alumni association development fund and co-chairman is John Courtright. Area agent for the alumni association is Robert T. Mason. President of the local club is Robert Bergmann.

GROUNDS FOR DIVORCE

CLEVELAND (AP) — James C. Hager, an 81-year-old painting contractor who got married last May, won a divorce yesterday after testifying his 59-year-old wife "treated me meaner than the dickens." He said she knocked his pipe out of his mouth, slapped his face and pulled off his spectacles. Judge Parker Fulton ruled "that's grounds enough for a divorce."

Major Test To Be Made

Million Children Will Be Given Salk Polio Vaccine

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
AP Science Reporter

NEW YORK (AP)—Each child taking the Salk polio vaccine this spring will have 30 billion dead polio viruses shot into his arm.

Each will get three shots, each shot containing 10 billion viruses.

Because they are dead, the viruses cannot cause polio. But even though dead, they still have some power to stimulate a person to make antibodies, the body's natural disease fighters.

Giving billions of dead viruses means concentrating this antibody-making power.

The big question is whether the vaccine can produce enough antibodies to protect children against natural exposure to live polio virus this summer.

—:—

ALL THE SCIENTIFIC evidence indicates that it will. But the only way to find out is to have half a million to a million children take the vaccine, and see whether and how well they resist polio this summer.

And the test must be run upon a huge number of children, because paralytic poliomyelitis is actually rather a rare disease.

Polio has been called an epidemic if only 20 out of 100,000 persons come down with it. However, it hits children more often than adults.

If you picked any scattered group of 500,000 children aged 6 to 9, you would expect that about 350 or so would become recognizably sick next summer with polio. (Of this 350, more than half would recover with no paralysis.)

So for an adequate test you must have half a million to a million vaccinated children to compare with an equal number of nonvaccinated youngsters of the same ages, living in the same communities.

AMONG THE nonvaccinated half million, there might be 350 cases of polio. How many will there be among the vaccinated half million? No cases? A perfect vaccine. Thirty-five cases? The vaccine would be 90 per cent effective. Very good.

Across the nation, children and parents and doctors and nurses and schoolteachers and health officers are volunteering to take part in this crucial test of the vaccine developed by Dr. Jonas E. Salk of Pittsburgh.

Local health authorities and the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis are conducting the trial. Up to a million children in 179 comunities or areas of 44 states are scheduled so far to get the vaccine.

In some communities the vaccine will be offered to all children of the second grade in schools. Children in the first and third grades of the same schools will be recorded as the "controls" or comparisons.

IN OTHER COMMUNITIES, half of the children in the first three grades of the school will be given the vaccine. The other half will get identical-looking shots of a fluid which is ineffective. All the syringes, whether containing real vaccine or useless fluid, will bear only code numbers, which will be placed next to the child's name on records made when he takes his shot.

These children, their parents and doctors, will not know whether they got the actual vaccine, or the ineffectual fluid. The meaning of the code numbers will be known only to a team of experts who will get reports, after the polio season is over, of the names and what happened to children who did develop polio during the summer.

This team, headed by Dr. Thomas Francis Jr., University of Michigan School of Public Health, will receive complete reports on all children—known to be vaccinated or not—in the test areas who are diagnosed as having polio.

That team can then give the answer on whether the vaccine really works.

Only a few years ago the possibility of a practical vaccine looked far distant. Then some great discoveries, mostly made in research supported by the March of Dimes, cracked the barriers to making field tests of a promising vaccine.

Study Radiation Effects

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—Scientists are making a 30-year study of whether there is any dangerous radiation in the bodies of residents of the Columbia River Valley below the Hanford, Wash., atomic energy plant.

No harmful radiation has been detected so far, the scientists said here today in disclosing that the study already has been under way seven years.

Adlai Recuperates, Works on Address

SOUTHERN PINES, N. C. (AP) Democratic leader Adlai Stevenson went back to work today on a major political address he will make in Charlotte Friday after three days in Duke Hospital at Durham for treatment of a kidney ailment.

Apparently as chipper as ever, he was dismissed from the hospital yesterday and returned by private plane to continue the interrupted vacation with his sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Ives, at their farm here.

Stevenson entered the hospital Sunday night. Doctors diagnosed his trouble as a small kidney stone. Leaving the hospital he joked, "I'm glad they found the stone in my kidney and not my heart."

Nation's Traffic Deaths Drop During February

CHICAGO (AP)—The nation's traffic deaths in February dropped to 2,470, the lowest level in three years, the National Safety Council reported today.

The figure was 2 per cent lower than the total for February 1953. In February 1951 there were 2,350 deaths.

Traffic deaths in the first two months of this year numbered 5,370, a decline of 1 per cent from the toll in the corresponding period of last year.

Tax Court Judge Learns How To Play the 'Numbers' Racket

CINCINNATI (AP)—For a penny or a dollar, you can play today the numbers racket in Cincinnati and northern Kentucky and hope to win 500 times the amount of money you put up.

The facts of the "poor man's sweepstakes" were unfolded in United States Tax Court Monday by Melvin Clark, who admitted he was still in the business in Newport, Ky.

He and other witnesses at his tax trial gave so many details on operations of the numbers system Judge Marion Harron asked:

"Whats the materiality of that? We don't want to learn the art of the business."

Clark said he first got into numbers in Columbus in 1933.

Details of the business: Policy number customers give their choice of three numbers to "writers," who deliver them to "runners" or "pickup men," who in turn give them to operators. Winners are determined by the last three digits of the total number of stocks or bonds sold on a given day at the New York Stock Exchange.

While bettors collect 500 to 1 if they win, their chances of getting the right combination is much smaller.

Of every $100 of numbers sold, the operator collects $65, the runners $30 and the writers $5.

There was no indication of how much "take" there is in the numbers game in the Greater Cincinnati area, but the internal revenue department said Clark underestimated his net income tax in 1948, 1949 and 1950. It wants him to pay $116,000 in back taxes, plus $58,000 in penalty for alleged fraud.

Clark appealed to the tax court. The government charged yesterday he kept two sets of books in attempts to cheat the government. Clark testified he did not.

Radio and Television

By John Crosby

2 Ladies With Problems

"Dear John Crosby:

"I would like to let you know how I bring in Channel 16 WENS (Pittsburgh). When the weather is bad or windy I have to stand about one to one and a half feet away from the side of the television. I don't mind the half-hour programs but the hour-long programs I am tired when they're over. My daughter has tried it but she doesn't work. I have rabbit ears and can get Johnstown and WENS and WJKF besides Pittsburgh.

J. CROSBY

"Have tired using an ironing board but it doesn't work. When I stand to the side, the picture comes in clear and when I walk away the picture goes away. Was watching 'The Mask' between 8 and 9 last night and had to stand all during the show.

"Don't have any trouble when the weather is clear.

"MRS. SYLVIA BLOOM

"Laurel Gardens, Pa."

Dear Mrs. Bloom:

I don't get it. Why do you have to stand up? Don't your rabbit ears work sitting down? And how do you see the show from one to one and a half feet to the side of the set? Have only two suggestions. Move to some more favorable spot, say, Scranton. Marry your daughter off to some one more sensitively tuned to bring in WENS — and let HIM stand.

Regards,

JOHN CROSBY

TO TURN TO MORE serious occupations, I am struck by a passage in a recent speech by Miss Rosemond Tuve, professor of English at Connecticut College:

"One anxiety is that children brough up on TV will not, like children brought up on the Latin classics in 1590, mature at 15 or 16, or like children brought up on Shakespeare and Milton in 1860, mature at 17 or 18, or like children brought up on Wordsworth and Sinclair Lewis and Virginia Woolf in 1925, mature at 20 or 21, or like children brought up on Hemingway and Bob Hope and Readers Digest in 1953, mature at 26 or 28 —but that they will not mature at all.

"They will not mature for the simple reason that they have not met the great philosophical problems which have exercised the mind of man and met man's most compelling and profound answers to them — which will not go onto a TV screen — until they are too occupied, too self-centered, too late, to find themselves interested."

NOW THAT THOUGHT, while an honest and provocative one, I find fundamentally misleading and hopelessly pessimistic. In the first place children are not brought up on TV. They are brought up by their parents and they are educated in the schools.

To ascribe the absence of the study of Milton to television is like blaming the Crusades for the absence of penicillin the 12th century. The presence of the one and the absence of the other are historic facts, but they had very little to do with each other.

Miss Tuve's point is that, even among scholars, there are very few really well-educated men and women around, and I can't dispute her on that because I have no figures on it. But, let's face it, there never have been very many really well-educated scholars around and this century is at least holding its own.

Whether there are or not, television has nothing to do with it. Television may pay little heed to the scholars — and it pays very little — but the scholars pay absolutely no heed to television.

IT IS THE NATURE of mankind —and a fortunate thing—that a man's restless mind will compel him to seek the exact level of intelligent preoccupation which it is capable of absorbing and understanding.

Television not only cannot distract even an intelligent child from more serious intellectual pursuits, it cannot even hold him through a single program. More and more intelligent people I know are simply not looking at television because it has nothing to say to them.

(New York Herald-Tribune Syn.d.)

Deep Sea Diver Takes Sea Elephant in Tow

AVALON, Calif. (AP)—A baby sea elephant which became lost from its mother has been taken in tow by Al Hansen, deep sea diver.

Hansen rescued the 2-month-old sucking mammal yesterday in Avalon harbor but is stumped about feeding it. The 70-pound baby has refused cow's milk and squid. Hansen is trying goat's milk, and if that doesn't work he is open to suggestion.

Burke Says He May Propose WPA Action

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Burke (D-Ohio) said today his first bill in the Senate might be for a public works program to combat unemployment—if it becomes necessary.

Right now, he told a reporter, he does not think unemployment is serious enough to warrant this.

But if the Eisenhower administration fails to sponsor a similar program and if things "get much worse," he said, then he will offer one.

REX MORGAN, M.D. By Dal Curtis

HOW DID YOUR LECTURE TO THE STUDENT NURSES ON JIM HARTLEY'S CASE GO, REX?
ALL RIGHT, I THINK, JUNE! I'M SURE WE ACCOMPLISHED ONE THING . . . A MORE WHOLESOME UNDERSTANDING OF LEPROSY!
BUT IN THE MEDICAL DIRECTOR'S OFFICE . . .
IT WOULD SEEM TO ME THAT DR. MORGAN'S PRESENTATION WAS VERY WORTHWHILE, MISS CLAREY.
WORTHWHILE? IT'S AWFUL TO EXPOSE YOUNG STUDENTS TO ANYTHING SO . . . SO HORRIBLE!
MEANWHILE, AT THE HARTLEY HOME . . . .
WHAT WAS THAT CALL ABOUT, RUTH?
NOTHING, JIM. IT WAS NOTHING IMPORTANT.

Tell Child of Operation, Medical Group Warns

CHICAGO—(UP) — The American Medical Association says parents should prepare their children emotionally before the youngsters undergo surgery.

An editorial in the AMA Journal said parents can play "an extremely important role in the preparation of a child psychologically."

The parents should possess sufficient information to answer those questions the child is certain to ask, the Journal said.

Parents should give the child a simple, straightforward explanation of the operation, the anesthetic and the role of doctors and nurses, the editorial added.

It suggested that the child be allowed to take to the hospital a familiar toy, pair of slippers or pillow, a tangible tie to his home life.

A laugh to be joyous must flow from a joyous heart for without kindness there can be no true joy.—Carlyle.

Wedding Plans Announced by Gene Tierney

ROSARITO BEACH, Baja California, Mexico (AP)—Gene Tierney, here for a week's respite from her movie labors, says she hopes to marry Aly Khan within six months, in France.

Said Aly, "I never discuss personal affairs."

In any event, Miss Tierney has switched from the "friendship finger" to the engagement finger the big diamond ring Aly gave her some time ago. She said he proposed 18 months ago, "somewhere in Europe."

"I knew I loved him a month after we met," said the actress, "but he loved me before that time."

Aly, describing his visit as "a vacation trip," took up residence at the Rosarito Beach Hotel last Saturday. Miss Tierney and her mother, Mrs. Belle Tierney, arrived with him, from Mexico City. Aly had flown there from Montreal and Paris, Gene and her mother from Hollywood.

The Moslem prince, 42, registered as "Melvin Taylor and party." On Sunday Miss Tierny, 33, had to return to California for movie work. She came back here yesterday at 4 a.m.

After a noon-hour breakfast, she and the prince met the press at the swimming pool of this resort hostelry 17 miles south of the border.

Miss Tierney, an Episcopalian, said she anticipated no religious difficulties in marriage to a Mohammedan. She also said there was no basis for reports that Alys father, the Aga Khan, opposes the match.

Asked what she would be called if she married Aly, Miss Tierney replied:

"Just a housewife.

Galion Area Residents' Relative Dies Suddenly

GALION — Funeral services will be held at Meadville, Pa., Thursday for Wallace E. Beck of Cleveland, who had relatives in this area. Services will be held at 10 a.m. at the Roofner Funeral Home, Meadville, with burial at the family plot in Gowanda, N.Y.

Mr. Beck died suddenly Monday morning following a heart attack.

A retired Erie Railroad trainmaster, he was 73 years of age. His wife, the former Myrta Kincaid MacFarquhar, died in 1926.

Surviving are: two sons, W. Earl Beck of Lakewood, formerly of Galion, and Ray Beck of Meadville; and one daughter, Mrs. DeEtta Hart of Cleveland; one brother, Roy Beck of Freedonia, N. Mrs. August Christman of Bucyrus and Mrs. Judd V. Dye of Galion, are sisters-in-law. A number of Galion people are planning to attend the services in Meadville.

Why those people went down in that cave in Kentucky isn't quite clear to us and we're afraid to ask for fear they'd answer: "Because it's there."

D. J. MacDonald of 176 Chicago Ave. returned Tuesday from Winnipeg, Canada, where he was called by the death of his mother, Mrs. Margaret MacDonald, which occurred March 22. In failing health for some time, her death, resulting from a heart attack, was unexpected. She was 85 years of age.

Mrs. MacDonald, who was the widow of Hubert Thornton MacDonald, had visited her son and family here a number of times.

The requiem mass was sung in St. Mary Cathedral in Winnipeg, with her son, Rev. Leo MacDonald of that city, as the celebrant.

Surviving are the following children: D. J. MacDonald of Marion; Rev. Leo MacDonald; Ronald of Schumacher, Ont.; Earl and Bernard of Vancouver, B. C.; Joseph of Copper Cliff, Ont.; Miss Marian MacDonald of Winnipeg; Sister Geraldine of St. Edward Convent, Winnipeg; Mrs. O. E. Caza of Valley Field, Quebec; and Mrs. Henry Devion of St. Boniface, Manitoba. Three sisters, Mrs. P. Peters and Mrs. K. MacCauley of Boston, and Mrs. W. MacDonald of Winnipeg; and two brothers, Neil McDonald of Saskatoon, Saskatchewan, and William McDonald of Montreal, Canada, also survive. A son, Edward, died in 1923 and Mr. MacDonald's death occurred in 1949.

Clyde Hosack, Morrow Teacher, Found Dead

MOUNT GILEAD — Clyde Raymond Hosack, 50, a junior high school teacher at Johnsville, near Mount Gilead, died of a shotgun wound about 7:30 a.m. Tuesday in the basement of his home. Dr. Frank Sweeney, Morrow County coroner, pronounced the death suicide. Mr. Hosack had not been in charge of his classes for a week.

Born Jan. 12, 1904, in Zion City, Ill., he was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Hosack, and had been a teacher 28 years. He was a member of the Church of Christ at Lexington.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Brida Hosack, his father who lives at Fredericktown, and two sons, Richard and Robert Hosack, both at home, and two brothers and a sister, Paul of Toledo, Donald of Tucson, Ariz., and Mrs. Leland Hildebrand of Galion.

The body was brought to the Craven Funeral Home in Mount Gilead.

A former Bucyrus man, Howard Atlee, has been engaged by producers Robert Fryer and Lawrence Carr to be in charge of a special ticket service department inaugurated in their New York office to assist groups in purchasing tickets to the new musical comedy, "By The Beautiful Sea," which will have its Broadway premiere April 8.

Atlee, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Heinlen of Bucyrus, attended Ohio State University in 1944 and after two years in the Navy was graduated from Emerson College, Boston, where he was house manager for the Drama Workshop and assistant to the director. His professional experience includes management and publicity for a number of summer theaters, production work on the musical play "Comin' Thro' The Rye," and a short time with the NBC radio network.

'Slight Dip Healthy'

No Big Business Slump Seen by Ex-RFC Head

By SAM DAWSON

HOUSTON (AP)—The modest slip in business and industrial activity may be bitter tasting medicine but it should do us good. That is the opinion of Jesse H. Jones, who will celebrate his 80th birthday Monday.

The one-time head of the Reconstruction Finance Corp., who lent billions to business, said in an interview:

"This dip hasn't gone far enough yet to hurt. It's a healthy thing and a little overdue."

Jones, who still sticks close to his job as builder, publisher and banker, said it's past time for America to climb off its stilts of boom and debt.

He thinks that if it doesn't, the economy may be heading for a sharper tumble.

In one stilt—as the man who held federal posts under Presidents Wilson, Hoover and F. D. Roosevelt sees it—is the great boom in production for defense and for overseas allies and the building of industrial capacity to a level over and above what the American civilian economy needs.

—:—

THE OTHER STILT—as seen by one who is called "the greatest money lender of all times"—is the huge total of debt at all levels: Governmental, corporate and personal. An economy striding too high on debt worries, many others, also.

"You can't go on forever spending more than your income without courting bankruptcy," Jones said.

"I'm not an optimist for the country's economy as a whole, because its stilts are too high. We should come down a bit."

While in Washington, although lending billions through the RFC, Jones had the reputation of being "as tight-fisted with public funds as if they were his own."

But when it comes to his own Texas, the tall, broad-shouldered Tennessee-born financier, who has "banker's blue-gray eyes" but a kindly smile, talks like others here in this oil-rich city:

"Houston is better off now than some of the cities in the North. It probably will stay that way and not be as badly hurt, no matter how business goes nationally."

—:—

TEXANS COUNT on the oil and gas industries, and a reasonably steady demand for their products, acting as a recession insulation. They say that their other industries are well diversified, and still growing.

Industrial production here is off perhaps 2 or 3 per cent from the peak, Jones estimates. This compares with a Federal Reserve Board estimate of 10 per cent drop for the entire country.

Retail trade here is off by 2 per cent, according to official figures, but Jones estimates the drop is closer to 4 per cent.

"It's caution, not a recession here," he says.

Customers are waiting to see what's coming.

Business Drop Better Than War, Weeks Says

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Secretary of Commerce Sinclair Weeks said yesterday, "I think the American people would prefer having a 10 per cent drop in business—which I'm sure will pick up later—to having their boys killed in Korea."

A year ago, he said, "we were spending a lot of money to shoot off gunpowder" in Korea. "The drop in our economy is equal to that of fighting a war in Korea and not fighting it," he added.

Man Falls From Roof, Drives Self to Hospital

BURLINGTON, Vt. (AP)—Ernest P. Handy, 43, was shoveling snow from atop the three-story Wilson Hotel yesterday when he slipped and tumbled 30 feet to the first-floor roof.

He got up, brushed off the snow, climbed into his car and drove to a hospital, where doctors found he had fractures of both wrists and a broken nose.

Seoul Has Air Alert

SEOUL (AP)—Seoul was under a red alert—hostile aircraft in area—today for 10 minutes. A brief Air Force announcement said a single unidentified aircraft had been sighted on radar screens near the demilitarized zone.

IN SENATE RACE. Former Vice President Alben W. Barkley has announced that he will seek to regain his Senate seat in the forthcoming Senatorial elections. Barkley, 76, said that "urgent and sincere" requests from the people of Kentucky and not personal ambition are responsible for his coming out of retirement and entering the Senate race this year.

Burglar To Catch Up on His Reading

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Because he burglarized movie stars' dressing rooms, Kenneth Franklin Dale Delmas Darling III is going to have a chance to catch up on his reading in San Quentin Prison.

He was sentenced yesterday to one to 10 years in prison for stealing $226 from actor Jon Hall's pants pocket in one dressing room and $50 from actress Joan Davis' trailer at another studio.

"The happiest years of my life," he said later, "have been spent in the San Quentin library. When I was paroled in 1952 I wasn't ready."

Darling observed that Hollywood is a place "where they leave money lying around like it's gone out of style."

State Jurisdiction

The Senate Labor Committee is reported to be ready to report out a bill for revision of the Taft-Hartley Act by the end of this week.

Its uncertainty over what kind of a proposal would fit into the Eisenhower administration's plans for labor-law changes this year was cleared up, according to Committee Chairman Smith of New Jersey, by a letter from the President.

In this letter it was made clear that there would be no presidential objection if the committee omitted a provision for government-supervised votes to be taken when disputes reached strike stage.

The apparent merit of such a provision was challenged so sharply on grounds of its workability that no one is inclined to make an issue of it now. It was the most controversial of all the recommendations made by President Eisenhower last January when he was outlining his legislative recommendations.

The most significant of his January proposals, on the other hand, was for state jurisdiction over labor disputes threatening health and safety.

This provision remains to be worded by the Senate Labor Committee. The draft of the wording will be scrutinized even more carefully than the various drafts for wording the now-famous Bricker amendment.

If it could be established without any question of doubt that the fate of labor unions, employers and the public in general did not lie wholly in the hands of the National Labor Relations Board in Washington but could be influenced by the states when industrial disputes occurred, modern labor law would have been rescued from the federalism which has held it captive since the original Wagner Act.

Its scope would be broadened to take in the sovereignty of 48 states as well as the influence of the federal government. The hearing and judging of industrial disputes would be handled something like the hearing and judging of the disputes which arise between citizens and organizations in other fields of activity.

The New Racketeers

Most normal human beings have dreamed at one time or another of existence free from toil. This dream is not to be confused with a similar dream of existence free from activity. That one is for worthless people with no ambition.

Sometimes the ambitious go astray. In the revelations coming out of the race-track scandals in New York one thead runs continously through all the arrangements whereby "outsiders" made large sums of money from the lush profits of the gambling business which keeps race tracks going.

There is always the same pattern: Someone with misguided ambition has been paying off someone else with misguided ambition for the unobstructed privilege of making a profit that could be obstructed by the person or persons receiving the payoff.

This is the racket, a distinctively American institution made famous in the twenties by people like Al Capone. Theoretically, racketeers now are out of fashion. But that is only an illusion.

It is only hoodlums who are out of style. The new version of the racketeer is an ambitious citizen who has learned how to collect from persons who otherwise could have been expensively inconvenienced by failure to cooperate in their ventures.

The new racketeers make plug-uglies like Capone and his crowd look as old-fashioned as Captain Kidd and his pirates.

Management Shortage

Even when unemployment becomes a problem, there continue to be chronic shortages of employables in specialized lines.

The greatest shortage is in competent management. It is not likely to be overcome in the foreseeable future because the demands made on management are increasing more rapidly than the quality of human beings.

In three places in particular, the requirements have become so stiff that only a few men can hope to satisfy them any more. They are ability to bear heavy responsibility without undue anxiety, ability to make sensible decisions rapidly and ability to delegate responsibility.

Francis J. Curtis, vice president of Monsanto Chemical Co., mentioned these and several others when he told the American Chemical Society recently what causes so many executives to have heart trouble. Men who let management problems worry them unduly, are unable to make rapid-fire decisions and cannot delegate responsibility are heading for trouble with their health.

Some other executive types headed for trouble are people who can't say no, who forget to live their personal lives, who neglect to get enough rest and who forget to eat and play properly. All of these can expect to shorten their life expectancy if they become executives, too.

No wonder there's a chronic shortage of management.

Realistic Foreign Policy

By David Lawrence

Dulles' Firm Stand Can Prevent World War

The American people may thank their lucky stars that the Stevenson - Acheson - Truman concepts of how to deal with Soviet Russia do not prevail today and that the Eisenhower - Dulles policy of clear-cut warnings and resolute preparation for any contingency that may arise, if the Communist aggressor moves again, has taken its place.

Because the average man is not always alerted to the insidious way by which politicians, for partisan advantage, do not hesitate to undermine the foreign policy of their own country and raise unnecessary suspicions that could divide our allies, the deliberate campaign of sabotage of American foreign policy which began with Stevenson's speech on March 8 has not received the attention it merited.

Now that former Secretary of State Acheson, in a statement printed in the New York Times of Sunday, March 28, openly participates in the campaign against the use of "massive retaliation" as announced by Dulles in his New York speech of January 12 last it begins to be apparent that a concerted effort has been undertaken by the Trumanites to whittle down the force and effectiveness of the present program of the government of the United States.

It was not unusual during the last administration for speeches to be made which seemed firm and positive in their warnings to Soviet Russia that America was building its armament to deter aggression, only to be followed sooner or later by other speeches that toned down the meaning and whittled down the strength of the pronouncements.

WHAT STEVENSON and Acheson have evidently decided to do is to accuse the Eisenhower-Dulles administration of planning some form of aggression or of formulating a policy deliberately inviting World War III.

If such statements had come from men without experience in government or unaware of the delicacy of dealing publicly with military plans and intentions which the enemy are always eager to learn, it would be understandable. But both Acheson and Stevenson know the dangers that arise when military planning is subject to public debate and minute cross-examination by partisan critics. The sequence of events is this.

Dulles in his speech of January 12 said, "Local defense will always be important. But there is no local defense which alone will contain the mighty land power of the Communist world. Local defenses must be reinforced by the further deterrent of massive retaliatory power. A potential aggressor must know that he cannot always prescribe battle conditions that suit him. The way to deter aggression is for the free community to be willing and able to respond vigorously at places and with means of its own choosing."

The important words to be noted are "free community," which, of course, mean allied consultations and allied unity.

On March 6, Stevenson, in a speech at Miami, said, "All this means, if it means anything, that if the Communists try another Korea we will retaliate by dropping bombs on Moscow or Peiping or—wherever we choose—or else we will concede the loss of another Korea — and presumably other countries after that—as 'normal in the course of events'." He then asked: "Will we turn brush fires and local hostilities into major conflicts? Will our allies go along?"

-:-

ALTHOUGH, CANADA'S foreign minister, Lester Pearson, promptly followed the Stevenson line in a speech on March 12 which indirectly accused America, in effect, of thinking of going it alone in the world. Sir Winston Churchill on March 23 told the British Parliament that "smooth and friendly arrangements" had been made for instant consultations between the United States and Great Britain and that the recent statements by Dulles on the employment of U.S. atomic - bombing power have been in full accord with British-American understandings.

This, however, did not satisfy Acheson, who in his statement published on March 28 insisted that America must resign herself to a lot of wars like Korea. He declared:

"If it is said, as it sometimes has been, that we cannot afford another war like Korea, the answer is that such a war is the only kind we or anyone else can afford. Only a madman would attempt to avoid it by plunging into the unspeakable disaster of a world war."

Acheson seems to imply in his whole statement that, when American military forces are spread thin all over the world by being lured into local wars, the enemy will, of course, not take advantage of the military weakness of the allied positions and will refrain from starting a major war.

-:-

HOW MUCH MORE in keeping with realism and with the American spirit of resoluteness the Eisenhower policy happens to be can be seen by noting the words of Dulles in his speech this week, wherein he makes it clear that further aggression should be met by "united action" and that "Sometimes it is necessary to take risks to win peace, just as it is necessary in war to take risks to win victory."

Dulles has not whittled down, softened, or adulterated his original statements.

His firm attitude is one that can prevent a third world war and deter aggression even in local areas, just as the weak attitude revealed by Acheson—then secretary of state—in his January 1950 speech, notifying the Communist world that Korea was outside the defense perimeter of United States military planning, virtually invited the Communists to begin in June 1950 their aggression in Korea.

Soul of a Poet

By TRUMAN TWILL

The poet Robert Frost was 79 years old the other day and made so many good - natured remarks about the shape of things as they are that it was enough to make some of us wonder whether being a poet isn't a pretty good way out of the uncertainties of the age.

The catch is that poets must be born; they can't be manufactured.

Not all poets are as poised and happy as this one, either, possibly because they are only aspiring to be what Robert Frost is—what he is acknowledged to be, moreover, by all who are competent to judge.

While the judges, themselves, cheerfully acknowledge their uncertainty about what good poetry is, they just as cheerfully acknowledge that whatever it is to be a good poet Robert Frost is it to the ultimate degree.

He feels and is able to express that emotional response to the world in which he lives that marks him as one of a blessed group of human beings — the ones who know what is real and good and can explain it to others in rhythmical and inspired language.

In actual truth, the language is relatively unimportant in all this because, as in all forms of expression, it is the perfection and the balance of the thought which lie at the heart of the matter. Some great poets, in the sense of being endowed with outstanding ability to see why men have a right to feel and to be guided by the exaltation of the spirit which is their most precious possession, could not versify for trying. Some didn't even try, their poetic vision never was brought to a focus in any of the various methods of communication.

But they had the souls of poets, nevertheless.

To get back to Robert Frost and his birthday, he shares something with Winston Churchill that could help ease some of the rest of us out of the trembles we are kept in by our failure to observe what is obvious about their point of view.

Having lived long and observed much, these oldsters know better than to confuse the moment with the span of centuries. Their eye is fixed alternately on two horizons—the one from whence they came and the one they are approaching.

Where they happen to stand at the instant — at any instant — is of small consequence. Frost the poet prefers to think of himself as Frost the farmer and Churchill the statesman likes to refer to himself as a journalist, which is all that he actually was when he began to live his full life.

Frost the poet says there is one thing he would like to have his fellow men do. He wants us to dally a little longer as we move along. He wants us to spare a little time to be alive. He thinks this would be easy if we would make a conscientious effort to slow down as we move from day to day.

There is nothing at the end of the path half so well worth the lingering touch of our hand and the caress of our compassion as the things which are within reach at each golden instant.

Frost said it this way once: 'Earth's the right place for love—I don't know where it's likely to go better."

That helps to explain how it's possible to be optimistic about things at the age of 79.

Bureaucracy Tightening Grip on U.S.

By Raymond Moley

The resignation of Budget Director Dodge to return to his private business interests brings to light once more a disturbing trend in our government in Washington. For the services of capable business and professional men in the federal government are becoming more and more transitory, while the permanent employes become more permanent and vastly more numerous.

The end, which may not be far distant, will be a government of the people, for the people, and by the bureaucracy.

I am not sure that the experience of Mr Dodge follows the familiar pattern, since I do not know him and have no so-called inside information.

The usual procedure is the calling of a man of proved capacity to Washington by the President or by a department head with an offer of a job or assignment of some kind.

THE OFFER takes the form of a plea, because such people seldom are attracted by public service. In any event, the President or someone else says that it is the man's duty, etc. And he agrees to serve for a while, perhaps, as in the Dodge instance, a year or so.

The man goes to work and must then spend a considerable time learning his way about the department. He usually finds that he must depend upon the lesser people who have been there a long time. Sometimes these bureaucrats almost completely take him over. If they do not, his life is not a happy one, for it is not pleasant to work with unsympathetic people. Then his year is up and he leaves.

A PRESIDENT grows weary of urging people to respond to the call of public duty and almost invariably succumbs to the temptation to give the job to a political hack or to promote a bureaucrat. In either case, the bureaucracy wins out.

Thus, there is a progressive decline in the quality of leadership. Witness as a good example the deterioration of the RFC after the departure of Jesse Jones.

Multiply such instances many folds, and you have the situation which prevails in Washington.

The efforts of Congress to reduce the size of the bureaucracy are at the moment inconsequential.

Sen. Byrd's latest figures on civilian employment tell the story. From July 1, 1953 to the end of February, 1954, there has been a decline in such jobs from 2,454,714 to 2,340,767. That is a reduction of only 5 per cent. It has been possible largely because the Department of Defense has under Wilson and Kyes (who also has gone back to private life), been able to cut civilian employment to a degree because of the end of the Korean War. But in a number of departments there is already an increase over 1953.

The February figures cited by Byrd show increases in the Departments of State, Health, Education and Welfare, Agriculture; Interior; Treasury, and the Veterans' Administration. And employment "outside continental United States" has increased 2,783.

Over the centuries France, Germany, Czarist and now Communist Russia have all gone the way of bureaucracy. But we have, until recent years, been free of such a deadening influence in our life.

Now, however, Americans may well be warned that what has happened in other, older countries is happening here at an alarming rate.

Who's Against Whom?

By Frank Tripp

Some confused high school kids, so classed by their own admission, have written me a letter, attaching news clippings, and saying, "We can't make out whether you are with us or against us."

I'm a bit confused too, whether they mean me, this column, the whole newspaper, or the whole world, sounds like they mean newspapers generally.

The heart of the letter is dissent with a verdict which has condemned a local boy of 19 to death for the murder of his father. He may have been one of their schoolmates, for all I know. They only sign, "Confused."

—:—

THEY CONTRAST this penalty with the Chicago case of William Heirens, who at 17 confessed the brutal murders of a child and two women, got life and lately was granted a review of his case. The stories broke about the same time.

"It just does not make sense," they write. "We kids wonder if there is any justice! No person condones murder, but why this difference in these two cases? Small wonder tha, we youngsters are confused."

WHATEVER they mean, the answer is that nobody worth their worry is "against them." Least of all the newspaper which prints that which pleases them and that which doesn't.

They are just growing up, that's all, and coming to the age when they must accept, as did their fathers, the bitter with the sweet; assume the responsibilities of life, which include a broader and different concept of "justice" than their letter reflects.

As the kids put it: "One article (in the paper) seems to be all for us and then the next one is against us. What gives?"

MY YOUNG FRIENDS, all through life you will encounter just such confusing aspects of the news, just such contradictory incidents in the drama of life.

Often "injustice" will come close to your lives in the very administration of justice as the state sees it. If you assume an attitude that every apparent injustice which you encounter is a slap at you because it hits a friend, an associate or a person of your status—you will live miserable lives indeed.

Many times things will not "make sense": never will everything make sense, any more than do the penalties to which you refer. Both of these made sense to the juries which heard all of the evidence. Each was justice as good and true men and women saw it.

Seldom will all that you read in a newspaper sound consistent, because a newspaper is but a mirror which reflects all that happens in the world. The sum total cannot balance to make sense so long as men think and react differently, so long as their hopes and their interests clash.

IT IS NOT within the province of the secular press to sort out and print only such news as reads consistently and omit that which may in one column contradict a story in the next column. That would not be a newspaper.

It is important, as you enter the estate of manhood and womanhood, that you learn to read your newspaper as you might all-seeing God look down upon the world from a great tower and view the sorrows, misery, crimes, perfidy, the achievements, joys, kindness—and above all the frequent injustice—that man inflicts upon man.

—:—

FOR IN YOUR newspaper you will find all of this, and only in your newspaper.

That I think you intended to do in your letter, which I am sending to Governor Dewey.

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

We Can't Wait

The inquiry into the Army-versus-McCarthy case will be televised, unless there is a last change in the plans. This will be the first time TV has been called on to produce a show combining "Quiz Kids," "Rumpus Room," "Suspense," "Dragnet," "Saddle Serials," "Meet the Roundup" and Long Island wrestling. Few people will see it via color video but there will be plenty of red faces visible in black and white.

-:-

This should cancel out radio daytime TV shows. Even the morning cooking programs which specialize in hot dishes, revealing how long to keep a hush flame, whether tabasco sauce is needed and just what to add to a stew to make it go around will find a direct challenge.

The very instructions "Beat the eggs well" and "Run through a mincer" on a cooking program could be mistaken for proceedings in the Senate subcommittee performance.

As we see it the hearings will begin just ahead of "Strike It Rich" and "Queen for a Day," crowd "Bride and Groom," and "Hawkins Falls" off the track and wreck Garry Moore, "Ted and Jinx and "Double or Nothing" may benefit through the committee "quiz" process but the senators should get back in time for telescope Art Linkletter.

Just when it's time for Kate Smith the TV audience may look for a rerun over the network and see Camp Gordon over Dave Schine, Secretary Stevens over Cohn and the Democrats over McCarthy.

This can kill video. It also can kill Senate subcommittees. Come to think of it, it could kill both.) No wrestling program has ever before been scheduled coast-to-coast in such a big way. The Senate subcommittee TV show will have a big advantage in public appeal. It will offer the TV fans ONE video program which doesn't open with a stereotyped dance ensemble and go immediately into a ballet of a Spanish dance. And this seems welcome to TV watchers. At no point will the senators' performance be resumed by contract to hurl the show and introduce Ray Block or any other orchestra leaders.

As we understand it there will be no commercials. This despite the fact there have been offers to Joe McCarthy from sponsors who want him to be shown shaving and endorsing a razor blade. Senator Mundt has been propositioned to say how the right cigarette gives a substitute committee chairman pause, and Sen. Symington has rejected a proposal that he say he owes everything to a non-slippery floor wax.

Sen. Dirksen, the rumor goes, will positively not indorse a tooth powder and to date there has been no report that Senators Potter, Jackson and McClellan will do a one-minute commercial on "which one has the Teal." The great drawback at present is that not a person in the probe can play the ukelele, harmonica or accordion. The search for a committee counsel who could swing Indian clubs failed.

McCarthy won't be allowed to do a cowboy act. Cohn, with all his versatility, can't do a tap dance or sing "Stranger in Paradise." Neither Stevens nor Adams is any great shakes as a ventriloquist or carries his own trained dog act. (Master Schine could put on a sort of early drama showing what can happen to a young man who hates Commies well enough to hunt them for free. But it won't be permitted.

We suggested to the committee lawyer that he be smart and step aside in favor of Jackie Gleason on his TV show. Jackie is used to winding up in the hospital. Jackie broke only one leg. Anybody in this probe who suffers no more serious mishap will be lucky.

"Appeals through the courts may keep Mr. Haynes from deportation for at least four years."—news item. Nonsense! Ten years is par for a decision showing whether it's all in fun.

PADLOCK ACTION SOUGHT

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP)—Judge Harold B. Koyle is expected to rule today on a request by the Mahoning County prosecutor that Al's Cafe near Alliance be padlocked. State liquor agents raided the cafe Sunday and George Mills, the proprietor, was fined $200 on bootlegging charges.

Recipe for Rich and Delicious Fudge

Every one in your family, from father right down to the youngest member, will think this chocolate fudge just about the best they've ever eaten.

With so many rich, tasty ingredients in it, it's sure to become one of your favorite candy recipes.

1½ cups firmly packed brown sugar
1½ cups granulated sugar
½ teaspoon baking soda
¼ teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon light corn syrup
3 squares unsweetened chocolate
1 cup milk
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 teaspoon almond extract
25 blanched, toasted almonds

Combine sugars, soda, salt, syrup, chocolate and milk in a heavy four - quart saucepan. Stir over low heat until sugar is dissolved. Cook over moderate heat to 234 degrees F. or to soft ball stage. Stir occasionally back and forth toward end of cooking. Remove from heat, add butter and extracts, but do not blend. Let cool to 110 degrees F., or lukewarm, beat until creamy and spread in a greased 8-inch square pan. Top with almonds and cut when cool. Makes 1½ pounds.

Racket Operators Taken as 'Dream' Number Comes Up

CLEVELAND (AP) — Numbers game operators in Cleveland were hard hit by Benny Mason's death and a "dream number," a police expert on gambling declared today.

Sgt. Carl I. Delau, who keeps check on underworld reports, heard that a number of players consulted "dream books" for the word "death" after Mason died and came up with a number that appeared Tuesday in New York Stock Exchange figures.

"Dream books," sold at news stands, purport to give numbers to match dreams. A number—between "1" and "999"—is picked out of stock market totals daily as the winner.

Mason, a retired Cleveland numbers operator, was hurt fatally Sunday in an automobile accident near London, Ohio. Internal revenue agents testified during a 1935 grand jury investigation that his game grossed at least $1,300,000 in one year.

After the "dream book number for death" hit, Sgt. Delau heard many operators were going out of business, offering postdated checks or trying to settle for less than the usual odds of 500 to 1.

16 Nabbed in Vice Raid at Portsmouth

PORTSMOUTH, Ohio (AP)—Portsmouth police have released on bond 16 persons arrested last night in simultaneous raids on four houses of prostitution.

Police Chief Hughie Rudity said 4 persons were charged with operating the houses, 7 women with working in the places and 5 men with visiting them.

Charged with keeping houses of ill fame were Charles Brown, Kate McDowell, Herschell Cross and Zora Wright, all of Portsmouth.

Rudity said the raids climaxed a month-long investigation.

Officials said Portsmouth had been relatively free of organized prostitution since 1948 when local and federal authorities combined to oust undesirable elements from the community.

Agents Figure 'Bookie' Take At 14 Per Cent

CINCINNATI (AP) — How much money should handbooks make?

Internal revenue agents contend the racehorse bookies should pull down a neat 14 per cent profit on the gross amount wagered. That is the approximate national track average on a parimutuel betting.

But Judge Marion Harron, sitting in special session here of the United States Tax Court, in effect accepted the argument of Robert N. Gorman, attorney for a group of taxpayers, that the income of a bookie cannot be computed on the same basis as the earnings of a track.

She ruled against the government yesterday in a $100,000 income tax fraud case. The government had sought the money from Joseph and Alex Schavel, brothers; Joseph's wife, Jean; their sister, Esther Snyder, and her husband, Sigmund, for handbook operations during 1944-50.

Judge Harron said the government failed to prove fraud and there was no evidence their records did not reflect their true income.

Mrs. Ceil Oxlander, another Schavel sister and bookkeeper for their enterprises, detailed the bookmakers' operation.

She said during the years 1944-50 three to five handbooks were open and took in more than 1½ million dollars. Profit varied from place to place and year to year, ranging from 4 to 15 per cent.

Profit from the "play" was slightly over $100,000, she said.

Alex Schavel testified the handbook operations stopped in 1950 when federal tax stamps were required.

The family operates two restaurant-bars in downtown Cincinnati.
